Series Aces Duel in Finale

BOSTON—"The World Series is going to end the way it should—our best against their best."

Boston slugger Carl Yastrzemski said it Wednesday after slamming a home run and two singles to help Red Sox to an 8-4 win over St. Louis Cardinals. (See also Page 16.)

He was referring to today's deciding game in which Bob Gibson, ace of the St. Louis mound staff, is scheduled to face Jim Lonborg, top hurler on the Boston club.

Gibson won the first and fourth games of the series 2-1 and 6-0 while Lonborg won the second and fifth, 5-0 and 3-1.

LIBERALS WIN BIGGER EDGE

Thatcher

REGINA (CP) — Premier Thatcher's Liberal government was returned for a second term in the Saskatchewan election Wednesday night by a slightly increased majority, but the result was almost as much of a cliff-hanger as his first victory 3½ years ago.

With election night returns complete, the Liberals had won 36 seats to 23 for the CCF.

That compared with a standing of 31 Liberals and 26 CCF members, one Progressive Conservative and one vacancy.

But recounts appeared probable in a number of seats where the margin of victory was slim. Five Liberals and three CCF candidates led their opponents by less than 100 votes.

Thatcher lost two cabinet ministers, Education Minister George Trapp and Public Works Minister Wilf Gardiner, and Conservative Leader Martin Pederson was defeated by a Liberal.

LOSE IN CITIES

The CCF held its own in rural constituencies but lost ground to the Liberals in the cities, where its traditional strength lay. Government candidates unseated two CCFers in Saskatoon and captured two new urban seats to the CCF's one.

Despite a comfortable victory in his own constituency of Biggar, CCF Leader Woodrow Lloyd said he will ask his party "to consider very carefully the question of new leadership."

An incomplete tabulation of the party vote showed the Liberals and CCF running even with the Conservatives dropping sharply behind their 1964 performance.

BIGGER EDGE

Social Credit Leader Lloyd Avram was a badly-beaten fourth in Qu'Appelle-Woleley. His five Social Credit running mates also fared badly.

Thatcher, who won by a slim 236-vote margin in 1964, finished 1,000 votes ahead of Mayor L. H. Lewry of Moose.

Guidelines? Maybe

Sharp Will Call Restraint Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said Wednesday he will call a meeting of labor, management, and other interested groups in his effort to get national support for restraints on rising prices and costs.

Whether the government will promulgate a formal set of guidelines or merely foster a general inclination towards restraining what otherwise might be an overheating of the economy remains to be seen, he told the Commons.

Sources outside Parliament said earlier the minister is working towards a set of economic guidelines to be introduced at the year-end or early in 1968 after discussion with labor, management and consumer groups.

MOBILIZE OPINION

Questioned about the report by George Hees (PC-Northumberland), Sharp told the Commons he wants to organize a campaign to mobilize public opinion in support of greater stability in costs and prices.

NDP Leader Douglas asked whether the government would set up a prices review board to gather information about prices and profits. He said the rising cost of living is more critical in Canada than any other western industrialized country.

Sharp said he could not yet indicate what formal machinery might be created, but it is up to the government to give leadership and it is.

CONFERENCE

The interim Opposition leader, Michael Starr (PC-Ontario) asked about calling a conference. Sharp said he had already told Parliament he intended to seek the help of labor, management, and other groups, and he added that calling a meeting would be part of the program. Consumer interests would be invited.

Sources outside the House indicated the government is thinking actively of using guidelines to control rising prices and wages.

TWO STYLES

The American attempt to dampen inflationary tendencies was to limit wage increases to the country's annual growth in labor productivity. Voluntary adherence to this formula was sought, but was not obtained.

The Labor government in Britain set up more formal machinery, and by severely restricting wage and price increases through a government board, succeeded in turning its inflation into deflation. Britain now is busily trying to "reflate" the economy.

Prisoner Kills Sheriff

WINAMAC, Ind. (UPI) — A county jail prisoner pulled out a smuggled gun Wednesday, fatally shot a sheriff and fled after dragging the dying officer into a cell and locking it.

Sheriff Milo Lewis, 58, died in hospital less than four hours after he was shot three times by Arthur Lewis, 38, Gary, Ind., an accused tavern brawler who did not belong in the Pulaski County jail.

Lewis was in Sheriff Lewis' jail only because the Strike County Jail at Knox, where the prisoner's case had been transferred from South Bend on a charge of venue, was not considered sufficiently secure to keep him.

Jail Flight Fatal, Vain

LAKEPORT, Calif. (UPI) — Three convicts attacked their guards Wednesday while being led through a narrow corridor from the jail to the Lake County courthouse. One officer, Dave Hoyt, 33, was killed and one of the prisoners wounded.

The prisoners were quickly subdued after the shooting by other officers and a judge. They had been scheduled to appear before the judge for arraignment on charges of escaping from a prison camp last month.

Thieu to Ask Ho to Talks

Soviet Ship Bringing Eight Bodies

Disaster Victims Sent Here

The Russian merchant ship Orekhov is bound for Victoria with the bodies of eight crewmen drowned in the sudden sinking of the freighter Panosceanic, about 1,700 miles west of here. The Orekhov is due to arrive at 6 p.m. Saturday. A representative of the ship's owners, Panosceanic Tanker Corp. of New York, will be in Victoria to meet the Russian vessel and arrange for removal of the bodies.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman, Lieut. (JG) T. J. Northup, said Victoria was the Orekhov's original scheduled destination. However, King Bros. Ltd. shipping agency here reported it had no knowledge that the Orekhov had been bound here.

NO MORE FOUND

A second day of searching Wednesday located no more survivors and it is believed the death count may reach 35. Only five of the crew of 40 have been rescued.

An international search begun Wednesday involved a U.S. Navy plane and four ships, the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Dexter, the U.S. merchantman Pan American Steel Seafarer, the Japanese freighters Bristol Maru and Rocky Maru.

"A couple more ships have since arrived on the scene and a couple more are en route," Lieut. Northup said Wednesday night. "Most of the ships passing through are diverting into that area to join the search."

A Norwegian vessel, the Visund, is headed for San Pedro, Calif., with three survivors and four bodies. The Igaharu Maru is headed for Yokohama with

Mass Resignations Greet Court Order

MONTREAL (CP) — Court injunctions were issued Wednesday night ordering 6,000 striking Montreal transit workers back on the job. The court orders came shortly after many of the strikers submitted their resignations to union leaders.

Issued in Quebec City, the injunctions were to be served Wednesday night or early today. Julien Chouinard, deputy minister of justice, refused to tell reporters whether the injunctions will be served on all 6,000 strikers or only on their union leaders.

The court orders terminate in 30 days — 20 days after a report is to be submitted to the cabinet by a Montreal Superior Court justice appointed earlier Wednesday to make a 60-day study of the dispute. The appointment is a formality required by law before the issuance of an injunction.

A cabinet meeting has been scheduled for this afternoon in case the bus and subway workers refuse to obey the injunctions.

At a Wednesday meeting preceded and followed by protest demonstrations, most of some 2,500 employees attending signed resignations. Union leaders said no one could be forced to work unless he wanted to.

Before the meeting several hundred strikers in about 100 cars conducted a cross-town "funeral procession" for Mr. Justice Francois Chevalier, provincially-appointed mediator in the strike who resigned his post after the CNTU rejected his settlement proposal.

The cortege was complete with a hearse carrying an open coffin with an effigy of the Superior Court judge plus four flower cars supplied by strikers owning convertibles.

Stanfield to Polish French

Crash Course Set

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield is to spend a week taking a "total immersion" French course starting Oct. 15, a spokesman said Wednesday.

Stanfield will stay in Montreal with a French-speaking member of his staff, Bernard Flynn, a Montreal lawyer, who will help the party leader maintain his use of French when classes are not in session. Flynn also is to relay any messages from the party's

Ottawa office to Stanfield in French, although "we hope the office routine will not intrude on his totally French-language week."

The spokesman said Stanfield is not preparing for any particular speech or event. His prime purpose in taking the crash course was to prepare for conversation in French with party members and French Canadians.

At Nova Scotia premier, Stanfield had little occasion to speak French, the spokesman said, and although he now reads French well, his speaking is "slow and a little uncertain."

For the first five days of the course, the party leader is to study mostly conversational French with various instructors from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. The last two days will probably be devoted to a review at his hotel with the help of an instructor and a tape recorder.

Airliner with 66 Crashes Into Sea

ATHENS (UPI) — British European Airways Comet jetliner with 66 passengers and crewmen on board crashed in the Mediterranean on a flight from Athens to Nicosia, it was reported today.

The Comet left London airport Wednesday night on the flight to Nicosia with a stopover in Athens, a spokesman for the airline said.

Government Disobeyed

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI)—The Communist-led National Workers Union ignored a government ban Wednesday and thousands of Uruguayan obeyed its call for a general strike.

The government had armed itself with near-dictatorial powers to cope with the walkout, and no violence was reported late Wednesday as the strike entered its final hours.

Authorities rounded up a number of labor leaders and hustled them off to police headquarters for questioning. Most were freed.

'Ban Trade With Cuba'

LONDON (UPI) — Former Venezuelan president Romulo Betancourt appealed Thursday for United Nations trade sanctions against Cuba in retaliation for Castro terrorism in Venezuela.

Betancourt, in an article written for the London Times, called on members of the UN to "adopt an attitude towards Fidel Castro's Cuba similar to the one they adopted towards Ian Smith's Rhodesia."

Betancourt, who restored democratic rule to Venezuela during his term which expired in 1964, now lives in Europe.

He accused the Castro regime of instigating "insane and indiscriminate" slaughter of Venezuelans.

Havana's "pathological obsession" in terrorizing Venezuela, he said "explains why there exists in my country a hatred of Castro and his followers which nobody tries to hide."

It also explains he said, why Venezuelans fail to understand the refusal of Canada, Japan and western European nations to co-operate with the organization of American States in boycotting trade with Cuba.

Trial Defence Abandoned

Frenchman Admits to Supporting Guerrillas

CAMIRA (Reuters) — French Marxist intellectual Régis Debray abandoned his defence Wednesday against charges of rebellion, murder and armed robbery in connection with guerrilla activity in southeast Bolivia.

Debray, sobbing over the death of Cuban revolutionary Ernesto (Che) Guevara, told a group of Bolivian law students he wishes to share in the responsibility for guerrilla actions.

QUESTIONS His statement was a reversal of his defence before a military tribunal here that he was not involved in guerrilla activity in Bolivia, and that he only entered the country to interview Guevara.

The Bolivian Army says Guevara, former right-hand man to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, died Monday from gunshot wounds suffered in a clash Sunday between guerrillas and troops near the town of Villavieja in southeast Bolivia.

RESPONSIBLE

"I am in mourning for the death of a continental leader," the sobbing Frenchman told the students.

"Yes, I am responsible, I am going to demand from the tribunal to do me the honor of making me responsible for the facts that are being judged," Debray said.

Guevara's body has been buried secretly in Vallegrande, the army claims. Although some doubt remains in some quarters that he was killed, the official Cuban newspaper, Granma, indicated that the Cuban government took the report seriously.

Viet Cong Repulsed After Losing Fortified Burrows

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong forces trying to recapture huge underground arsenals attacked American infantrymen Wednesday in the jungles near Saigon. U.S. troops repulsed the assault in an hour of sharp fighting and seized guerrilla supplies that included brand new Russian-made sniper rifles and tons of food.

IN THE AIR

In the air, air force and navy jet fighter-bombers flying on instruments and using radar to penetrate heavy monsoon clouds swept into North Vietnam Wednesday and blasted targets south and west of Hanoi.

Pilots reported touching off a big explosion at the Nam Dinh storage area and transshipment junction about 45 miles south of Hanoi, indicating petroleum and ammunition had been destroyed.

OTHER RAIDERS

Other raiders reported destroying a 100-foot-long bridge 100 miles west of Hanoi near the historic fortress at Dien Bien Phu along routes leading to the Ho Chi Minh infiltration trail.

U.S. B-52 Stratofortresses loaded with tons of blockbusters ranged over the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam late Wednesday night and before dawn today, staging saturation raids on North Vietnamese positions as close as 2.4 miles from the U.S. marine outpost at Con Thien.

NEAR SAIGON

The fighting near Saigon raged in an area where thousands of American infantrymen have launched a drive against Viet Cong fortresses concealing huge quantities of guns, ammunition and combat rations under the jungle floor.

Headquarters said Operation Pershing troops killed 47 North Vietnamese in two days of skirmishes and captured seven sniper rifles, 13 machine guns and a pile of grenades, mortar shells and medical supplies.

American commanders believe the area is honeycombed with such tunnel complexes. The Viet Cong use them as rest camps and staging areas for attacks on Allied installations in the Saigon district and raids against South Vietnamese hamlets and villages.

Cambodia Claims Genocide

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Cambodian ambassador to the United Nations, Huot Sambath, Wednesday accused the United States of waging genocide in Vietnam and said Americans were engaged in "the conscious destruction of an Asian country and people."

Cambodia has made similar charges before, but the attack Wednesday was particularly vehement.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy will visit Cambodia next month at the invitation of its chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and there had been hopes that the former first lady's plans for the journey to the Southeast Asia nation might produce a warming in relations with the United States. Mrs. Kennedy's trip was announced last week.

The Cambodian diplomat accused the United States of planning to expand the Vietnamese war into Cambodia, and of encouraging dissidents in Thailand, Cambodia and South Vietnam to harass the Sihanouk government.

France's NATO Future Questioned

PARIS (UPI) — Speculation increased Wednesday that France will pull out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in 1969 because of long-term foreign policy decisions by President Charles de Gaulle.

The indications appeared increasing as the council headquarters staff was totally occupied with moving to Brussels, which will become NATO's new home on Monday.

NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio added fuel to the speculation Tuesday night in his final speech in Paris, a round-table affair with three French opposition party politicians.

"The date of 1969 which people are calling the expiration of the Atlantic Alliance treaty will actually be only the 20th anniversary of the pact and will give each member country the right to renounce the treaty," said Brosio.

"The alliance will continue ties and, I hope, with the same number of partners."

Only a week ago Brosio said he was "sure" that there would still be alliance members in 1969, and observers said his switch to the word "hope" was a sign of war.

French officials have persistently denied France has any intention of leaving the council when the treaty opens its escape clause in 1969.

Control by Guidance

WHEN FINANCE MINISTER SHARP last week gave his message to the nation that the time had come to halt the inflationary spiral, and gave a start by ordering cuts of $1,000,000,000 from the government's 1968 estimates, he also made it clear that co-operation from other governments and from industry, commerce, services and labor was needed to make the move successful.

Some doubt was expressed as to how the finance minister could create an atmosphere in which industry would keep prices within moderate bounds, and the unions would accept a situation in which wage increases would not exceed the increase in the cost of living percentages, without actually putting teeth into his suggestions.

Mr. Sharp was asked for "Sharp Deeds" and this week it is indicated he intends to set up guidelines on price and wage increases which would be imposed on a voluntary basis.

Details are lacking, but it appears that Mr. Sharp is following the guidelines policy adopted several years ago by the late President Kennedy rather than the dogmatic freeze order imposed on wages, prices and profits just over a year ago by Prime Minister Harold Wilson in Britain.

In this it would appear that Mr. Sharp is wise, for although the U.S. "voluntary" system has not been perfect, it has probably done more good than harm. On the other hand, the Wilson "freeze" produced no apparently lasting cure and brought with it depression and removed all incentives from industrial progress.

Nonetheless Mr. Sharp is going against the advice of the Economic Council of Canada, which does not think guidelines are practical in Canada because of its close ties with the U.S. and its need for exploration and development capital.

Be that as it may, the fact remains that if the government sets a limit to which it thinks prices and wages should increase on a yearly basis, it is then setting a pattern, which should be useful in all disputes coming to the arbitration level.

It is to be noted that guidelines in the U.S. worked under President Kennedy because he was personally strong enough to force the mighty steel industry to rescind price increases the administration did not think were in the interests of the country. More recently under President Johnson the adherence to the principles of the guidelines have been of a less martial nature, and, as in Canada, prices and wages have not been held in check.

The Canadian government, if it accepts Mr. Sharp's proposals, will itself be the hub of the operation. It will have to enforce the guidelines in all matters in which it has the final word (and that means no more 30 per cent increases such as the government awarded in St. Lawrence Seaway wages two years ago). If it fails to do this how can it expect private enterprise and labor to observe the ground-rules?

Saanich to the Fore

THE DEAN of Commerce at the University of British Columbia, Mr. Philip H. White, has suggested to the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards that Canadian governments should consider a new system of providing homes: buying existing units for resale to those who cannot afford market prices. It will be gratifying to Saanich, and particularly to Councillor Edith Gunning as chairman of the council's health and welfare committee, that this is almost exactly the approach to public housing which the municipality is pioneering.

Under the Saanich plan 50 homes worth about $13,000 each will be purchased, the federal government paying 75 per cent of the cost and the provincial government 25 per cent, to be rented to low-income families now occupying sub-standard accommodation.

In Mr. White's concept such homes apparently would be sold to the needy on easy, subsidized terms, rather than rented. But apart from this difference, the arguments he put forward in favor of his own scheme apply equally to the Saanich endeavor: the existing homes are less expensive than new housing; they enable public housing to be created more quickly and at less cost to the taxpayers; they are scattered throughout the community and thus, in contrast to ordinary public housing projects, do not tend to segregate the needy and thus create new social problems.

When the city of Victoria, according to Alderman Lily Wilson, is in desperate need of low-rental housing for welfare recipients, with welfare workers searching the advertisements and cruising the streets looking for suitable homes, it would seem appropriate to hasten to consider following the Saanich example.

Tragedy in Sport

THE CANADIAN SPORTING WORLD will be saddened by the death of 19-year-old Allan MacDonald as a result of injury in Tuesday's match between his team, the Victoria Hornets, and Oak Bay's Farmer Construction.

This fine young athlete collapsed after he was called to the bench when his coach noticed he appeared tired. In fact he was suffering a subdural hemorrhage, according to medical findings.

But he was not quitting the game. He was that kind of youngster.

Allan is believed to be the first boy fatally hurt in juvenile football in Canada. But he is by no means the first to die as a result of injury on Victoria clubs. Peter Ogden died of a head injury in a game against the first New Zealand All Blacks team to visit Victoria more than 50 years ago, and gallant "Cap" Peter Murray playing against a Vancouver representative side for the Crimson Tide. Johnny Penketh of Victoria College was the third fatal casualty here.

All three athletes were playing English rugby when they were hurt.

Games of violent bodily contact are bound to take a toll and although the risk of death is small indeed the players are well aware of it.

The best defence, they all maintain, is physical fitness. The better a man's condition the less are his chances of injury. In professional football, American, Canadian or the English rugby game, in spite of the ferocity of the play there are extraordinarily few crippling incidents and fatalities are very rare.

Helmets and pads provide protection in the Canadian and American football games, but the rugby player scorns even this precaution. He depends on his physical condition, like a boxer must, to resist punishment.

This is something that every boy should remember, and every coach must drill into his charges. Lamentably, there will be accidents as long as body contact games are played. But fitness is the very best defence.

"I said withdrawal—withdrawal, s'il vous plait!"

Britain and the United States

A Rest from the Special Relationship

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN from London

THE pundits of Britain are engaged in proclaiming the end of the "special relationship" between Britain and the United States. There are, of course, no official obsequies and the death is not formally recognised. Yet it is being greeted with a sort of melancholy, almost masochistic satisfaction.

The Americans now take major defence decisions without even informing, let alone consulting the British government. The U.S. Congress forbids the American purchase of military equipment from the British. American policy in the Far East proceeds on its war course unaffected by the tut-tutting of the British.

This "special relationship" has been a cardinal act of faith since the Second World War. In Britain it justified a certain subservience to American policy. Now, this, in the future may be harder to justify. And, anyway, the relationship was always being shot through with disagreements especially over the Far East. Nor in fact did the Americans often support the various shifts in British colonial policy. Indeed there are old men in England convinced that the United States eased Britain out of her colonies so that she might dominate them herself.

This relationship existed and in part still exists at many different levels. There was the slightly rickety superstructure of inter-governmental relations. It was based on mutual respect born of the war, on the apparently inextinguishable gratitude of the rest of the world, on the friendship between presidents and prime ministers and the establishments of the two countries. Now the memories have dimmed and President Johnson does not much care for foreigners.

And yet it is not as simple as that. Recently, before a visit by Prime Minister Harold Wilson to Washington, an American journalist was talking to the president. He asked why he saw Mr. Wilson so often and went to such lengths to satisfy him. The president answered: "It's like this. A young man may have a girl friend in Paris, and another in Rome and another in Vienna and another in Madrid. But in London, that of them. That's where Mom is."

In fact this relationship, as old as the United States itself, has almost always been at once a close and irritable one. When, during the American War of Independence, General Washington had to sign the death warrant of a British officer, Major Andre, for spying, he wept — which is unusual in a time of hatred. And the American Founding Fathers, though steeped in French philosophy, continued to take their culture and way of life from the old country.

But out of the American success in that war, heroic to the Americans, brash to the British of the time, there was born a hearty mutual contempt — traces of which can still be found by the dedicated excavator. Under this umbrella a fruitful and friendly relationship was maintained. The Royal Navy patrolled the sea. The U.S. provided raw materials for Britain's industrial revolution.

This non-loyal was interrupted, it is true, by the War of 1812, one of the silliest in history. Violent dispute was avoided with difficulty (and the help of the Prince Consort) during the American Civil War. Each country despised each other's manners and pretensions and the touring journalists of the day made a good living ending each other up in much the same way as they now do to the Communists after visits to Eastern Europe.

The special relationship in America has largely consisted of a British and unplanned and quite unconscious influence upon what might be described as the Anglo-Saxon underground in the United States — the white, Protestant and largely Eastern seaboard class who, recruiting occasionally from other strains, manage to keep the reins of power.

At least until the last war, there were the rich and grateful recipients of the various manifestations of British culture and they swallowed them whole, like oysters. There were Galsborouges and Lawrences for the great museums and Chippendale chairs for the dining rooms of the arrived. There was Scotch whisky and the Prince of Wales on tour, and Rhodes Scholarships; the design of rose gardens and knighted English actors and country house architecture; the elegance of English historical writing and English servants and a conception of English luxury (omitting the food and the climate) and clothes for men; things made of silver or leather or china; and the accent which, unlike the Australians, the educated American tends to find charming if occasionally incomprehensible.

What America sent over to Britain in this interchange is more important and less funny. Even if American history demands a special relationship, above all with France, the convenience of the common English language and the frequent coincidence of national interests, has made the British-American connection inevitable, durable and real.

But the relationship between nations is not based on friendship or gratitude or owed loyalty. It is the coldest thing in the world, based upon calculations of self-interest that can change within a week. Any nation worth its diplomatic service can find splendid reasons for spitting in the eye of a recent ally.

Britain and America are not on a crash course but on different courses. America is preoccupied with problems that differ from those of Britain's. America's Far Eastern and Negro agony does not intimately concern the British.

Nor does Britain's flirtation with Europe, nor her striving for economic respectability, intimately affect many Americans. But the benevolence if not the mutual respect still remains. No great damage has been done. If it were necessary to both, the relationship could be restored overnight. As it is, each is preparing to take a rest from the more demanding aspects of each other's company.

Surprise in France

Miffed Voters Move Left

By THOMAS NUZUM from Paris

THE rising Red tide has caught political observers in Paris by surprise.

Voter displeasure with President Charles de Gaulle's economic policies and a well-organized Communist campaign resulted in the Reds tripling their seats in the French regional council elections.

A few weeks ago, pundits were predicting that the fragile alliance between Communists and the federation of Socialists and Radicals could not endure.

The federation is a very old Russian, and pro-Israel for one thing. The Communist Party follows Moscow's pro-Arab line. But to ingratiate themselves with the federation, the Reds offered to withdraw their candidates in the runoff where the federation had a better chance to beat the Gaullists. To keep from being shoved back in France's political isolation ward, the Communists even withdrew candidates who outpolled the federation in some legislative districts.

To avoid splitting the left-wing vote, Socialists and Radicals concluded runoff deals with the Communists in departments (regions) where they had been dihard rivals until now.

French Communists won semi-respectability by their resistance to Hitler's occupation troops in the Second World War. President de Gaulle made several Communists cabinet ministers. His successor, Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier, even named one as minister of defence.

But Ramadier kicked the five Reds out of his cabinet in 1947, and French Communists made themselves political pariahs until now by following Moscow directives in the cold war.

"They are not leftists, but Easterners (Russians)," quipped Socialist leader Guy Mollet.

To show Mollet was right, Communist leader Maurice Thorez lived in party headquarters, a veritable blockhouse with an armored door.

Twenty years in the political doghouse showed that the Communists could never win a majority by themselves. With no chance to win an election, they steadily lost votes, although remaining France's biggest organized party.

But the 20-year chill also demonstrated that the Socialists and Radicals had no chance to win a majority without allying themselves with the Communists. As a result, the leftists have been increasingly accepting Red support in elections since 1955.

To allay Socialist apprehensions, Thorez's successor Waldeck Rochet proclaimed that France is too advanced for leftists to take over by revolution, and that the Communist Party seeks victory by democratic means. Rochet has moved out of the blockhouse, and soft-pedalled Communist foreign policy to give the impression that Reds are good French citizens.

The day of French revolutions seems to have passed now that the streets are no longer paved with stones to make barricades out of. In fact, political commentators are saying that the real reason is that the paving stones have been covered with asphalt to provide smooth rolling for automobiles. France has a higher percentage of these luxury vehicles than any other major European state. So Karl Marx's 119-year-old Communist Manifesto is no longer correct. ("Workers have nothing to lose in revolution but their chains.")

However, the new Red election gains are a reminder of discontent. About 40 per cent of French families still lack autos and TV sets.

In addition, de Gaulle's rapprochement with Russia is believed to have made the French Communist Party look less scary, just as Premier Pierre Laval's mission to Moscow helped pave the way for the Popular Front of Communists, Socialists and Radicals back in 1936.

Socialists and Communists are condemned to ally themselves in order to challenge effectively de Gaulle's diminishing majority.

Once de Gaulle leaves the helm, and the leftist alliance has a good opportunity to take power, then the Socialists might drop the Communist Party like a hot potato, many observers have been forecasting lately.

But increasing co-operation between the Communists and the federation makes an eventual leftist victory look more plausible.

On television, the other night, an American reporter let his camera show how South Vietnamese — even those with certificates of loyalty provided by Saigon — are treated brutally by U.S. marines. The reporter began his commentary by quoting a marine colonel: "Everywhere hereabouts is against us."

The scene in that clip of TV film is, as far as one can judge, typical, and the hatred it

Jordan's Discontent

Peace Hopes Wither

By IRENE BEESON from Amman

WITH the first hint of autumn in the Jordanian air, a mood of oppressive anxiety has settled on the capital, Amman. The slender hopes of a peaceful settlement of the Arab-Israel conflict have withered almost completely with the approach of winter.

Repatriation of West Bank refugees, begun in August, has failed. The first phase, from August 18 to 31, instead of easing the problem which poses a crippling threat to the country, added to it. Out of a total of about 250,000 who crossed to the east bank of the Jordan River during the June war with Israel and immediately after, 170,000 applied for repatriation last month. But only 14,000 were able, or allowed by Israel, to return.

The second phase of the repatriation, due to have started at the end of September, was called off by Jordan when Israel refused to grant new permits and merely accepted repatriation of a small number of "left overs" from last month.

Jordan insists that Israel must implement the promise she made in June in the United Nations, that all refugees would be allowed to return to the West Bank.

The two weeks of repatriation amounted, in effect, to a lull in the 1967 exodus from the West Bank. Since August 31, crossings from the West Bank have been filling the small gap opened in the refugee ranks by last month's repatriates. And from farther east, from the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip and the Sinai Peninsula, a new wave of refugees is pouring into Jordan.

The meeting of Arab heads of state in Khartoum, last month, offered a brief hope of peace, but it did not live up to expectations. "The most that can be said for it," many Jordanians have remarked, "is that it has, at least pointed the way to a degree of Arab unity."

There was hope, too, that King Hussein's exhaustive and exhausting tour of Arab and other countries would yield dividends in support and promises of help which might tip the United Nations balance in favor of the Arab side. But the recent debate in the General Assembly created the impression here that the Arab world has little or no chance of success in the Assembly's October session, owing to the "patriotic attitude of the U.S."

"If we fail in the United Nations," a Jordanian told me, "war will be inevitable."

"The Western world will press us to negotiate with Israel, to recognize Israel. We cannot negotiate until Israel withdraws from our land and we cannot recognize her. Today Israel is settling the West Bank, setting up villages for immigrants on Jordanian soil. A few weeks ago we hoped something might happen soon to restore to us the West Bank — but today we feel that it is lost to us until we can regain it by force."

It is the attitude of the Western World — and especially of the United States — that Jordanians feel will force the Middle East into another war. Most people envisage it as another round in a localised conflict, without any idea of how or where it will originate. They know that Israel will not sit back and wait for the Arab world to gather strength for a retaliatory attack, yet they argue that the Arabs must build up their armies for the "final confrontation."

New Weapon Against 'Anglo-Saxons'

France Pulls Money Strings

By HAROLD MORRISON
From London

France appears to be using multiple weapons in her drive to keep the so-called "Anglo-Saxons" off balance. It may not just be a question of keeping Britain from European Common Market membership; it also may paralyze plans for a massive injection of new money into the arteries of world trade.

Britain has been made amply aware that President de Gaulle does not want her in the six-country partnership. In public speeches, private talks and through Common Market documents, the French message is stated clearly: Britain is too weak, her links are too wide-spread, her interests are too questionable to make her a good European.

The British government has chosen to play down these arguments or simply ignore them in its determination to gain the entry denied by de Gaulle's veto in 1963.

There have been whisperings that de Gaulle has hinted to the British ambassador that, if Britain keeps pushing, he may find it necessary to use every weapon at his command to prolong the negotiations or shut the door once more.

He still has the veto. In addition he has the knowledge and power to frustrate the British appeal for an expansion of the world credit supply to take pressure off sterling as a reserve currency and help oil the machinery for an expansion of world markets.

When bankers and central bank governors met at Rio de Janeiro last month to complete their historic agreement for expansion of currency reserves through so-called special drawing rights, there was a hint that France might not be so willing to go along.

It had been agreed that the Common Market, with France as its pivot, would get virtual veto rights on how the new reserves would be injected in the world stream.

BUCKROZZA

Injection had to be approved by 85 per cent of the International Monetary Fund membership votes. Since the Common Market countries have more than 15 per cent of the votes, their approval would have to be obtained.

And while there might be doubt whether the Common Market would vote as a bloc, there appears to be little question that a bloc vote is what France visualizes for her partners. And there is more than a hint she'll get full support from West Germany.

While Britain and the United States maintain there is no agreed link between monetary fund reform and expansion of the credit-money supply, the fact a final treaty on money and plans for reform are being undertaken simultaneously and with similar March 30, 1968, completion dates would indicate France has won a favorable compromise.

It still remains to be seen what reform takes place. Undoubtedly the Common Market will obtain increased influence in the fund's over-all policies.

Meanwhile, French officials may have made clear to Britain that she has a lot to lose if she persists in mounting furious pressure for Common Market admittance.

She might lose her membership chances as well as chances for world monetary expansion.

Two-Party System
In Store for France

By HAROLD KING
from Paris

Under the constant pressure of the new constitution of the Fifth Republic, France is steadily moving towards a two-party political system.

A striking symptom of this development was the decision of the Christian Democratic party, or Popular Republican Movement (MRP), to disappear from the political scene.

In its heyday, during the first decade after the Second World War, when France enjoyed some dozen political parties, groups and grouplets, the MRP was the biggest political party in the country.

In 1947 it had 163 members in the National Assembly. Today, it is not represented in the assembly at all.

The decline of the MRP is attributed mainly to its failure to follow the majority of its voters in supporting President de Gaulle.

For all practical purposes, the political structure in France has already been reduced to four main parties.

The Gaullists, still the strongest single party in the country, in uneasy alliance with the Independent Republicans.

A number of middle-of-the-road or centrist assembly members.

The Communists. What is forcing the parties to line up on one side or the other of a dividing line between government and opposition is the election of the president of the republic by universal suffrage, and the rule that in the second ballot, if there is one, only two candidates can stand.

Problem of Cities Alters Attitudes

U.S. Politics Scrambled

By JOSEPH KRAFT
From Washington

Local elections around the U.S. manoeuvres in the Congress, and the continuing fight for control of the Republican Party all suggest that there is going on beneath the surface of American politics an immense scrambling.

The problem of the cities is forcing a fundamental change of attitude and outlook. In particular, workers and businessmen are reversing their usual roles.

The businessman used to be a figure of study, standpatism, a booster and Babbitt, a income-buster and America first. But in the context of urban problems, he emerges as the man with the resources and know-how to rebuild the cities, the chief hope for progress and innovation, the hero of the avant-garde.

Thus Sen. Robert Kennedy's program for urban redevelopment has, as its main feature, tax subsidies to encourage the business community to clean up the slums. Business participation is equally the key element in Sen. Charles Percy's program for low income urban housing.

The new element in the administration's recently announced program to create jobs for the hard-core unemployed is once again a subsidy to business for training workers. By no mere accident the leadership of the new program is vested in the Commerce Department, otherwise known as the main Washington lobby for the business community.

In sharp contrast, there is the role of the industrial and clerical workers. As the backers of Roosevelt and Truman, and the supporters of the unions and their broad social welfare programs, they stood for decades on the forward frontier of politics.

Now the ordinary white worker feels that the value of his home is seriously threatened by the enormous migration of Negroes to the cities. He may feel the same about his job, and his social standing, and the safety and education of his children.

At the same time he is being obliged to pay more for social services which serve him only slightly.

In this situation, the blue collar workers are the very opposite of a force pushing for action in meeting the problems of the cities. Their interest, and now their habit, is to dig in against higher taxes for more welfare spending.

Their negative attitude, like the new positive outlook of the businessman, finds political expression all across the country.

Two current examples are James Tate who is seeking reelection as mayor of Philadelphia and Louise Day Hicks, the lady running for mayor of Boston. As one political scientist said of Mrs. Hicks' supporters: "This isn't only anti-Negro feeling. These are poor, uneducated people thumbing their noses at affluent America."

A direct test between the progressive business outlook and the standpat attitude of most workers is posed in the Congress right now by the President's request for a tax increase.

The business community favors the increase as an anti-inflationary measure. But most of the ordinary people of the country are flat against it, and their hostility has not been eased by appeals on behalf of the social welfare programs certain to be cut without a tax rise.

A far more important and dramatic test of strength is likely to come inside the Republican Party.

For more and more the Republican presidential race is shaping up as a contest between the governor most identified with worker resistance to welfare spending, and the one most identified with business leadership in the rebuilding of the cities.

More and more, in other words, it is shaping up as a confrontation between Ronald Reagan and Nelson Rockefeller.

Christians, Communists
Open Friendly Dialogue

By CECIL NORTHGOTT, from London

The first of a series of informal talks between Christians and Communists has taken place in Britain. Fifteen members of the Communist Party met 15 members of the Church of England, Roman Catholics, Quakers and Methodists for two days of discussion.

Similar consultations are being held in other countries between now and April 1968 when an international congress of Christians and Marxists is to be organized by the World Council of Churches.

The movement to draw Christians and Communists together in closer understanding owes much to the energies of Professor Josef Hromadka, 70-year-old professor in the Protestant faculty at Prague University.

A convinced Christian, and also a believer in the social revolution achieved by Communism in Czechoslovakia, Hromadka claims that Christianity and Communism should be co-operating in the search for a more peaceful and just world.

years and like the more famous Dean of Canterbury the late Dr. Hewlett Johnson, sees no conflict of conscience here.

The opening of this new dialogue does not, in the opinion of Christian leaders, mark any change in the Christian view that many of the political aspects of Communism are evil, and that officially the Communist Party denies the existence of God, claiming that religion is a hindrance to the Communist revolution.

But the fact that 50 years after the Russian revolution the Christian church is still active in the Soviet Union, and that under the other Communist regimes of eastern Europe there are vigorous Christian communities, is compelling Christian leaders to take a new look at Communist-Christian relationships.

Generations of Christians, now living under Communist rule, may never have known any other form of government. A clarification of political, moral and theological aims is needed if the opposing systems of thought are to understand one another.

A great deal more common ground between Christianity and Communism may be discovered if these informal dialogues can be conducted in an atmosphere of goodwill instead of the suspicion of the past.

Medical Aid Upheld

OTTAWA (CPI)—The external aid office conceded Wednesday that some of the equipment in 10 packaged emergency hospitals sent by Canada to South Vietnam earlier this year will not stand up to long wear.

A spokesman for the office added, however, that this related only to a minor part of the $780,000 worth of equipment, such as canvas beds, the X-ray and surgical equipment, for instance, was perfectly suitable for use in Vietnam.

DOCTOR CRITICAL

The official was commenting on charges by Dr. Michael Hall of Toronto, who served for about three years in Vietnam, that much of the Canadian medical equipment sent to Saigon from Canada is unsuitable for Vietnamese needs.

Dr. Hall's main charge Tuesday night on the CBC television program Viewpoint was that Canada has done little or nothing to aid the civilian war wounded in Vietnam, especially children.

Murder Boast Claimed

MERIDIAN, Miss. (UPI)—A FBI informer testified Wednesday that members of the Ku Klux Klan bragged to him about how three U.S. civil rights workers were chased down on a rural highway, slain and buried beneath an earthen dam.

Meridian Police Sgt. Carlton Wallace Miller, 41, who was a member of the Klan at the time of the June, 1964 slayings said the organization had earlier agreed to the "elimination . . . that's a term for killing" of Michael Schwerner, one of the victims.

A man believed to be James Jordan, guarded by the FBI for nine months in a secret hideout, was hauled through a back door at the courthouse to testify in the trial of the 18 men accused of conspiring to slay the three civil rights workers.

Jordan was expected to follow Miller to the stand. Miller's testimony came as a surprise and it was registered in the face of the defendants. Jury members moved to the edge of their seats to listen closely.

Miller said he became a paid informer for the FBI in September of 1964 and told chief prosecutor John Doar that the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan has a plan to intimidate Negroes by threatening their jobs, "whippings and beatings."

Doar asked what the Klan did if these tactics failed.

"There was an elimination . . . that's a term for killing," Miller replied.

Did Faith 'Cure' Three?

SAN FERNANDO, The Philippines (AP)—A spokesman for 108 American and two Canadian invalids claimed three paraplegic cases were cured Wednesday after being operated on by self-proclaimed faith healer Antonio Agapao.

The spokesman said the three were able to walk after a session with Agapao, 28, a grade school dropout whose activities are being watched closely by medical authorities.

Agapao was convicted of the illegal practice of medicine by a Manila court in 1959, and fined the equivalent of $250. The Philippine Medical Association now is considering legal action against him.

The invalids, all residents of Michigan, are billeted at a beach resort 100 miles north of Manila. The Canadians have not been identified.

The spokesman declined to give the names of patients he said were cured.

Christmas Parcels, Cards

Mail Dates Closing In

It is already too late to send Christmas parcels via surface mail to Canadian servicemen stationed in Indo-China or Tanzania and to civilians at certain trans-oceanic countries, and deadline dates for Christmas mail to other points are not far away, according to a schedule released by the post office here.

Deadlines for Christmas parcels via surface mail: Britain, Nov. 21; European continent, Oct. 23; South Africa, Oct. 20; India and Pakistan, Oct. 13; West Indies and South and Central America, Nov. 3; Australia and New Zealand, Oct. 23; and Japan and Hong Kong, Nov. 4.

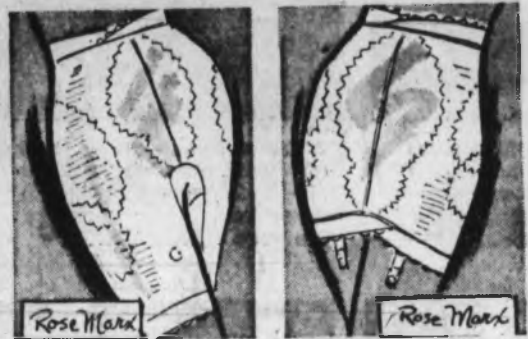

Deadlines for Christmas mail sent by air to the above places vary from Dec. 6 to Dec. 9.

Christmas parcels sent by surface mail to servicemen overseas are bound by the following deadline dates: Britain, Nov. 28; Europe, Nov. 28; Cyprus, Nov. 28; and Ghana, Oct. 23. For parcels sent by air, the deadlines vary from Dec. 6 to Dec. 9.

Letter intended to reach the recipient by Christmas Day may be mailed air mail to any of these points before Dec. 8.

Recession Close Publisher Warns

VANCOUVER (CP) — C. J. Laurin, publisher of the Financial Post of Toronto, warned Wednesday Canada is closer to a recession now than at any time in the last six years.

Laurin told the men's Canadian Club here there has been no substantial change in industrial production since last fall, housing starts and building contracts are down yet living costs are rising.

"What makes the present situation all the more worrisome," he said, "is the fact we have both an economic slowdown and inflation."

"It may be that more obvious signs of recession will be needed to bring unions and business back to earth."

Laurin said demands for higher wages and falling profits are setting the stage for prolonged strikes in 1968.

"I would suggest that 1968 when Expo is over, is going to be big year for strikes," he said. "And the federal government, which has been keen to keep everything going in 1967, will be less likely in 1968 to urge settlements at virtually any price."

The rise in Canadian productivity is less than half that of the United States, yet Canadian labor costs per unit are rising faster, he said.

Labor will have to forget about pay parity with the U.S. until it helps bring about productive parity, he said, and management has a definite responsibility to increase efficiency.

Hees

Industry Department Attacked

Hees Urges Tax Incentives

OTTAWA (CP)—A slashing attack on the federal industry department was mixed Wednesday with a call for tax incentives to encourage industrial productivity as the budget debate continued in the Commons.

George Hees (PC-Northumberland) said the incentives are a primary step towards increasing productivity with industrial competition about to stiffen as a result of lower tariff rates due Jan. 1.

The industry department, created by the Liberal government that took office in 1963, was described by Hees as "a vast bureaucracy" that has produced "little but confusion."

The needs of industry were far better looked after when handled by the trade and commerce department alone, he maintained.

The former Conservative trade and commerce minister said that since the industry department took responsibility for the productivity council, the rate of productivity has declined from 4.3 in 1964 to a probable minus figure in 1967.

"We are in for the most fiercely competitive period this country has ever faced but the government doesn't seem aware of it," Hees said.

He described tax incentives tied to industrial developments as the only way to remain competitive and provide jobs.

The government's application of tight money had led to high interest rates and had forced industry to check expansion. Skilled labor had been in short supply since late 1964.

The results were inflation, a housing crisis and a drop-off in productivity.

Hees said the emphasis must shift from developing social security measures to developing a climate in which agriculture and industry can sell at competitive prices.

Doctors Warned Not to 'Usurp' B.C. Privileges

British Columbia's doctors have received a "somewhat unique acceptance" from the provincial government but they must not abuse or usurp those privileges, the president of the B.C. College of Physicians and Surgeons said Wednesday night.

Dr. P. O. Lehmann, speaking to the college's annual meeting at the Empress, was discussing recently-adopted amendments to the B.C. Medical Act.

SPECIFIC PRACTICE

He pointed out that some states of the United States have put the policing authority for the medical profession in the hands of a state licensing board. In B.C., the college has the right to fine or suspend members.

Dr. Lehmann also explained that the college's temporary register has gone into effect.

It restricts certain doctors to a specific practice. In other provinces, they could have been fully disqualified.

"It allows some doctors, eminently qualified, to practise in their specialties. This avoids wastage," he said.

LAST YEAR

The college's ethics committee reported all complaints it had from patients last year have been settled but it again urged doctors to keep complete records.

Dr. A. F. W. Peart, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, told of a trip he made to China last year, when he noted the politics of Mao Tse-tung were filtering into that country's medical profession.

Since the cultural revolution, more politics has been getting into medical schools and medical journals.

"The Chinese are doing good medical work but how broadly it is being applied (among the 700,000,000 population) is another question," said Dr. Peart.

Doctors Honored

Dr. J. H. Moore, who administered the first blood transfusion in Victoria, was given an honorary membership Wednesday night in the British Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons.

He has been in practice here for more than 50 years and administered that historical transfusion shortly after he returned from the First World War. He later became pathologist at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Also honored by the doctors was Dr. R. J. Wride, now chief of surgery at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mothers Blamed In Infant Deaths

British Columbia doctors have evidence that a lack of medical attention may be one of the reasons for a high incidence of infant deaths.

Dr. A. F. Hardymont of Vancouver said Wednesday that one-third of the B.C. women whose babies died during the last half of pregnancy or within a month after birth went to doctors too late in their pregnancies.

About half the pregnant women who later lost their babies did not see their doctor often enough.

AT EMPRESS

Dr. Hardymont is chairman of the perinatal mortality and morbidity committee of the British Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons, now meeting at the Empress.

(Like adolescence or adulthood, perinatal is the definition for a segment of life which runs from the last half of pregnancy to one month after birth.)

MORTALITY RATE

The province's infant mortality is 22 of every 1,000 live births. This is comparable to the North American average, which is 14th in statistics from civilized countries.

Dr. Hardymont's committee has been studying perinatal deaths and defects for two years.

"With family planning now popular, each individual pregnancy is becoming more important," he explained.

"Years ago, a fair number of infants died. Now, we are not as casual as we once were about human reproduction."

Loans' Cost Still Rising

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

The high cost of borrowing — probably the steepest in more than 35 years — shows no sign of easing, and the highly rated securities of the T. Eaton Company Ltd. are proving no exception.

The T. Eaton Acceptance Corporation is issuing $20,000,000, 7½-per-cent, 25-year sinking fund debentures at 98½ to yield 7.65 per cent.

The debentures are non-callable for refinancing for 15 years and the sinking fund comes into effect in 1970 at a starting premium of 106.

Also hit by the high prevailing interest rates is the province of Newfoundland, in the market for $12,000,000.

Of this $7,000,000 is being offered in 7½-per-cent, five-year sinking fund debentures at 100, and $5,000,000 in 7½-per-cent, 20-year sinking fund debentures at 98½ to yield 7.40 per cent.

TEENAGER THE BOSS?

The great influence of the teenager on Canadian marketing is the subject of an interesting study made by the Western Ontario University's School of Business Administration.

It surveyed the opinions of some 2,000 teenagers in London, Ont., and Chicoutimi, Que., and if all the youngsters are to be believed, their influence on Canadian business is extraordinarily high.

For instance in London, 49 per cent of the teenagers claim they had a "lot or some" influence on their parents' purchase of a house. In Chicoutimi the percentage was 65 per cent.

FAMILY CAR

More than half of them — 54 per cent in London and 62 per cent in Chicoutimi — said their advice counted in the buying of the family car. In clothing 64 per cent and 88 per cent influenced the choice and in food it was 76 per cent and 78 per cent.

The study group also found teenagers preferred three or less brands of consumer goods, thus proving some sort of herd instinct among the youngsters. It was also shown smoking was much more prevalent in the Quebec city than in the Ontario one.

UNDERWATER GOLD

Matachewan Canadian Gold Limited has recently acquired 2,000 square miles of mineral claims off the Atlantic coast of Nova Scotia, and it plans to explore the area for underwater deposits of gold, silver, tin, uranium, beryllium and zircon.

Underwater mining techniques have improved so much in recent years that Matachewan claims that placer mining costs to a depth of several hundred feet are but a fraction of hard rock mining on land on a per-ton basis.

Gold worth over $41,000,000 has been mined in Nova Scotia, and it is believed that much more during the ages has been swept offshore down river beds and by glaciation and erosion.

Super-Strong Steel Challenges Market

NEW YORK (CP)—International Nickel Co. Inc. announced Wednesday the discovery of a stainless steel alloy of superior strength.

Details of the new alloy have been given steel manufacturers. A spokesman said International Nickel hopes the alloy — called IN-744X — will prove attractive enough to join the current family of stainless steels in production in "the next year or so."

The alloy, with nickel 6½ per cent of its content, is claimed to have approximately twice the annealed yield strength of most stainless steels used today, excellent corrosion resistance and good welding qualities.

Its discovery arose from company research into the phenomenon of superplasticity — the ability of a metal when hot to stretch like taffy. The new alloy has this property, but practical ways to use the superplasticity still are being sought.

Edmond N. Skinner, product development manager, told a press conference IN-744X should be useful in such stainless steel applications as truck bodies, transit cars and traffic signs. He hoped it would make stainless steel a more formidable competitor in the metals field.

Changes Urged In Paper Trade

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new world trading pattern is emerging for paper and paperboard products, and Canadian manufacturers should get into the play, Trade Minister Winters said Wednesday.

In a speech read for him by Northern Development Minister Laing, Winters told a Kennedy Round seminar important tariff cuts on these products will be made by both the United States and European Common Market countries.

Most Canadian manufacturers have limited their paper and paperboard production to the domestic market. They operate with few economies of scale behind tariff barriers that are being dropped substantially as a result of the Kennedy Round negotiations.

Federal experts forecast stiff new competition at home, particularly from U.S. imports of fine papers.

The Winters speech said U.S. tariffs have been cut in half on a wide range of protected papers and eliminated entirely on half a dozen others.

The top U.S. rate, when reductions are fully implemented, will be 10 per cent or less.

In Europe, tariffs will be 12 per cent for such products as kraft paper and linerboard. "I urge those in the paper industry in British Columbia to look very carefully at the new trading situation which is emerging."

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

For two or three brief months, the ruling bodies of golf were patting themselves on the back for their wisdom, discretion and tolerance in accepting a unified code of rules for 1968 and onwards.

The meeting in England last May on the occasion of the Walker Cup matches brought together the Royal and Ancient Golf Club, the U.S. Golf Association and the Royal Canadian Golf Association, and at that meeting it was agreed that in everything but the size and weight of the ball, golf should be the same game the world over.

As the three bodies are the only ones to produce a set of rules in their own rights, it looked as if lack of uniformity was at an end.

Unfortunately this has not proved to be the case. The touring pros, who are part of, but not the majority of, the Professional Golfers Association of the U.S., have decided they do not like some of the new rules, and that they will continue to play their competitions as they want to play them.

This goes for their refusal to accept the ban on the "between-the-legs" type of putting and the continuous putting rule approved for stroke play by the ruling bodies.

The touring pros think a player should be allowed to putt as he chooses provided he does not push, scrape or spoon the shot.

Continuous putting, whereby in stroke play, the player on the green furthest from the hole shall putt and continue to putt until he holes out, does not appeal to the pros because they believe it could create inequalities where big money is at stake. The pros also are not keen on the rule which says the ball may be cleaned only once on the putting green, and then only before the first putt has been made.

It is unfortunately not very practical to say "let the touring pros do what they like." For one thing, because of TV, most golfers at one time or other watch tournament golf played by the gold-trailing pros, and what they see the pros doing, will be accepted by many as the rules that must also be accepted by the "amateur" pros.

The British and U.S. Opens, almost exclusively populated by the leading pros, will be conducted under the "amateur" rules as they are now being called. It is going to be confusing and awkward.

Worse still is the plight of the Royal Canadian Golf Association which relies heavily on the support of the USPGA for its Canadian Open, and has a commercial undertaking acting as its co-sponsor.

The RCGA will have to decide if it will follow the lead of the R. and A. and the U.S. Golf Association in sticking rigidly to its own rules in its own open and thus incur possible displeasure and non-attendance of the top pros.

In the past the RCGA has compromised. It has allowed the pros some latitude in rule interpretation such as in method of dropping the ball for TV tower or spectator stand obstruction, as well as in the method of removal of foreign matter on the line of putt.

If however the croquet putters and other bans under the new rules were permitted in the Canadian Open, a very serious situation could easily develop, and it would certainly make it difficult for the RCGA to persuade its thousands of members that there should be one set of rules for the Persians and another for the Medes.

Indeed the revolt of the touring pros has aroused such feeling in the U.S. — particularly from the amateurs with croquet putters — that the U.S. Golf Association might be forced to go back to the R. and A. and the RCGA with the admission that the new uniform code is impractical so far as its domain is concerned.

Charlie Smith, the 88-year-old secretary of the Vancouver Island Senior Golfers Association, says the only reason the Old Blisters won't let him resign is that they believe he carries a good weather charm about with him.

The autumn meeting at which Cy Watkins of Glen Meadows won the Bob Mayhew trophy with a net 68 at Uplands last Friday was no exception. Despite a week in which there was more rain than shine, the seniors with the exception of the last two fourtimes got round in dry weather.

The dinner following was quite an occasion because life member Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson in his 100th year was present and was congratulated all round.

Game Postponed

O'Keefes 'Wrecked'

Bill Findler, president of the Pacific Coast Soccer League last season, stated, with a slight annoyance at the rain-cancelled games in Victoria last season, that at least Callister Park was invariably playable with its sand surface.

Findler has since resigned but the PNE directors in Vancouver, which run the park, have found another reason to cancel a soccer match.

WRECKS MISED

Victoria O'Keefes were scheduled to open the season at Callister against North Shore Lackies on Saturday but the league has been informed that the park won't be available. A series of demolition derbies has been held at Callister during the summer and it appears that there are currently some 22 wrecks.

wrecked cars mixed throughout the field.

The pitch is soft with the heavy rainfall and the PNE has not been able to remove the wrecks. The clean up job is scheduled for Saturday.

MAY BE BLESSING

For O'Keefes, the cancellation may be a blessing in disguise. Marty Taylor and Barry Sadler are both hobbling with ankle injuries while Bill Hamilton has a broken thumb. Next PCSL game for O'Keefes is on Oct. 28.

Woodling Signs

BOSTON (AP) — Gene Woodling, one-time New York Yankee outfielder, has been signed by the Yankees to scout for them. Woodling was recently dismissed as a coach for Baltimore Orioles.

High Cage Salary Denied

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers made it official Wednesday that Wilt Chamberlain had ended his holdout and signed a one-year contract with the National Basketball Association champions.

There were reports that the 7-foot-1 centre would receive in the neighborhood of $250,000 but both a 76ers spokesman and Chamberlain denied the salary was that high.

Chamberlain was slated to join the team immediately and to play Wednesday night in a pre-season game against the New York Knickerbockers.

COA Official Resigns Over Policy

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Olympic Association will meet in Toronto this weekend and it is expected one of the major topics of discussion will be the recent resignation of Henk Hoppener, the group's first paid executive.

Hoppener, a driving force behind the success of Olympic House at Expo 67 since its inception six months ago, resigned through COA president Jim Worrall of Toronto, and officially left the job Sept. 30.

His resignation was never made public and no successor has been named.

Since then Olympic House has been run by COA secretary E. Howard Radford, past-president Ken Farmer and other Montreal members of the executive committee.

Both Hoppener and Radford agreed that the resignation was brought about by policy differences, but they declined to define the policy differences and Radford said the matter will be discussed officially for the first time at the COA meeting Saturday and further comment should come from Worrall.

Victoria Girl Scores For Canada

TROY, Northern Ireland (Reuters) — Susan Millikin of Calgary scored three goals Wednesday as a touring Canadian field hockey team defeated Ulster President's 5-2.

The game was the last one scheduled for the Canadians who started their tour at the International Federation of Women's Hockey Associations tournament in West Germany last month.

Brenda Robson of Toronto and Vivien Wilkinson of Victoria scored the other Canadian goals.

STEWART & HUDSON Ltd.

Romance Denied

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — British Lord Harlech said Wednesday there was "no truth" in reports that he is a serious suitor of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

"Mrs. Kennedy has been a very close friend for 13 years and of course when I am in the United States I always see her," he said.

"There's nothing more to it than that."

"There are no plans, then, for a marriage?" he was asked.

"No, of course not," said Harlech, who as Sir David Ormsby-Gore was Britain's ambassador to Washington while John A. Kennedy was president.

Sources close to the former first lady were quoted in New York as the origin of the report, which was denied by Nancy Tuckerman, Mrs. Kennedy's secretary.

The 46-year-old peer, here for a speech, has exchanged regular letters and telephone calls with the former first lady.

Mrs. Kennedy flew to England last May to attend the funeral of Lady Harlech, who was killed in an automobile accident, and to console the bereaved husband.

Gil Hodges Signs Mets' Contract

BOSTON (AP)—Gil Hodges left his job as manager of Washington Senators Wednesday for the same job with New York Mets. He signed for a three-year term.

Hodges' decision to switch teams even though he had a year left on his Washington contract was announced at a press conference attended by president Bing Devine of the Mets. Hodges, who finished his illustrious playing career with the Mets in 1963, succeeds Wes Westrum, who resigned shortly before the end of the season. He becomes the third manager in the five-year history of the National League club, following Casey Stengel and Westrum.

Hodges took over the staggering Senators during the 1963 campaign and, starting in 1964, Washington finished ninth, eighth and this year tied for sixth in the American League.

Esquimaux Wins Opener

ST. JEAN, Que. — Canadian Forces Base Esquimaux opened the defence of the Canadian Armed Forces soccer championship Tuesday with a 4-2 victory over CFB Petawawa.

Frank Walters, Dan Lawson, Bob Marsden and Jim Schulz scored for Esquimaux.

CHICAGO (AP)—Charles O. Finley said Wednesday he has decided Oakland, Calif., is where he wants to shift his Kansas City American League baseball franchise for 1968 and added "I am hopeful the league owners will grant me approval."

Finley said he and the owners will meet in Chicago next Wednesday.

"I have based my opinion to move to Oakland on four points," Finley told the Associated Press.

GIVES REASONS

"One — the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum Complex provides the finest facilities for all-around sports in the world."

"Two — the climate in the area is very ideal for baseball and second to none."

"Three — the population growth in the area is the fastest of any major league area in either league."

"And four, the enthusiasm for sports in the area is overwhelming."

Nationals To Europe

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's national hockey team, under manager-coach Jack McLeod, left Montreal Tuesday night for Grenoble, France, site of Winter Olympics in February.

The Canadian team has been invited to participate in the "official opening" tournament for the Grenoble Olympic Stadium.

Providing opposition for the Canadians will be Czechoslovakia today, the United States two days later and a Soviet team Sunday, Oct. 15.

The team returns to its Winnipeg home base Oct. 17.

Test Tourney Tough For Vollmer

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. — Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver carded an 80 Tuesday for a total of 314 at the halfway mark of the 144-hole tournament to select recruits for golf's gold trail next year.

Alvie Thompson of Toronto carded a 71 for a 292 total, 12 strokes behind the tournament leader Gibb Gilbert, but good enough for a tie for eighth place. Ronald Folk of Regina has an even 300 and Ken Fulton of Winnipeg 306.

READY FREDDY took over in first quarter then rebounded lead to DAVIARNA going down far side, but came again rounding stretch turn, got to front and won by short margin. Davidson went a trifle wide turning for home, losing some ground and could not hold winner in final drive. SOUTHERN had no excuse being in good position throughout. SILY ALIBI was going well at end.

Overweight—Rondal (2).

449—SIXTH RACE—Claiming, purse $500. For three-year-olds and upward. Three-year-olds, 117 lbs.; older, 123 lbs. Claiming price $1,000. Purses divided: First, $250; second, $125; third, $62.50; fourth, $31.25; fifth, $15.62.

Single Watt Brightest In Lights Up

Canoes Race For Birthday

Simon Fraser University Outdoor Club is sponsoring a two-day Centennial canoe race down the Fraser River this weekend.

The race is open to all men and women with standard canoes, and the course extends from Mission to Annacis Island near New Westminster.

Entrants must travel from Mission to Fort Langley the first day, and Fort Langley to Annacis on the second day.

There are several classes: Canoes 15 feet and under, male crew; canoes 15 feet and under, male-female crew; and canoes 17 feet and over, male crew.

Another development for canoeists is a meeting to organize a canoe-kayak club in Victoria, at Servetus Hall, 106 Superior, at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Organizer Anthony J. Wilkins said 23 persons have already announced they will attend the meeting.

Purposes of the club, said Mr. Wilkins, would be to hold canoe races on the Gorge annually, to plan and organize canoe trips, and to co-operate with other organizations to promote canoeing.

The musical revue Lights Up Again, which played to a slim house Wednesday at the McPherson Playhouse, is unfortunately not up to the standard that Bastion Theatre usually puts forward.

The material seems to be the problem, since Victoria audiences have come to expect much from the performers, Don Mo-Manus, Marge Bridgeman, Margaret Martin, Nancy Watt, Bill Hooley and Glenn MacDonald.

Opening night came to life only in the odd moments when Miss Watt danced.

The material is taken from a number of Eric Nicol's books. The music by Marge Adelberg does have a characteristic lift, but Wednesday's audience did not seem to find the Eric Nicol material appealing.

AUTOMATION

The opening number is a skit on British Columbia, subtitled, The Last Word on the Centennial. It consists of a series of parodies on B.C. culture.

In the final number of the first half of the show the entire company demonstrates what might happen at the totally automated university when students troop along a production line with courses sold to them by modern advertising techniques.

The second half of the program is given over to three sketches, two of them adaptations of Marge Adelberg's School for Wives and The Three Bears.

The other is a short Eric Nicol skit on how to get rid of a husband.—W.D.A.T.

Never in Hot Water

But He Doesn't Urge Trans-Siberian Trip

By BILL STAVDAL

From Hong Kong home to Victoria via Siberia is the tourist route pioneered by Jim Quinn, but he doesn't recommend it.

"Veal cutlets and fried potatoes is all you get for seven days going across Siberia," he reported Wednesday.

"And no liquor — just wine."

Jim, a former commercial fisherman and ex-owner of the Crest Motel, was living aboard his new Chinese junk in Hong Kong when he heard about the Trans-Siberian Railway.

ACROSS PACIFIC

"For $500 I could fly back across the Pacific," he said. "For an extra $300 I could keep going east on the train and get home that way."

Naturally he went by rail. He says he's glad he did, but he wouldn't do it again.

Three years ago Jim sold his motel and took off for Hong Kong to build his dream boat. The 53-foot luxury craft rides in the water now, surrounded by thousands of humber craft that are home to Hong Kong's floating population.

Fitted with ornate carvings, inlaid silver and brass and equipped with stereo music, Jim's junk is reported to be a sensation.

But a legal battle with the builder has escalated the cost from an initial $25,000 U.S. dollars. By August Jim was fed up sitting around, and decided to come home for a while until the case is settled.

The way such a trip is done, he says, is by contacting the Russian embassy in Tokyo.

He flew to Yokohama, then to Nakhodka in Siberia, near Vladivostok. Then it was by rail to Moscow and on through western Europe.

Jim says the trip was enlivened somewhat by a Chinese miss who became his travelling companion, but there was little else to do but gaze at 8,000 miles of forest and meadow.

He has a tip for potential travellers on the Trans-Siberia Railway: first class costs twice tourists class, but the service is the same.

"No hot water, no change of linen. And no liquor."

His treatment was good even though he was mistaken for an American.

"I'm always taken for an American," he said Wednesday. "I talk so much."

"I've been around the world and haven't had my baggage searched yet."

His plans are just what you'd expect of Jim Quinn.

"I'm going to sail my ship around the world."

"I can sail her by myself, but I guess I'll find a girl-friend and we'll make the trip together."

Floods Kill 16

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) —

Flooding caused by torrential rains which began Sunday killed at least 16 people and left 32,000 homeless in Buenos Aires and its suburbs, the Argentine government reported Wednesday night. Ten inches of rain was officially recorded.

Big Two 'Agree' On Mideast Plan

CAIRO (UPI)—The authoritative Egyptian newspaper Al-Ahram reported today the United States and the Soviet Union agreed last Tuesday on a four-point plan to resolve the Middle East crisis.

The Cairo newspaper, in a dispatch from the United Nations, said the agreement was reached in Washington at a meeting between Arthur Goldberg and Anatoli Dobrynin, the U.S. and Russian ambassadors to the UN.

It listed the four points as:

• Negotiations between Israel and the Arabs were an "impossible thing."

• The crisis can and should be solved through the United Nations and Secretary U Thant.

• Thant should name a representative to hold consultations to solve the crisis. The representative should act from UN headquarters in New York and not from the Middle East.

• The Security Council should convene to adopt a resolution to this effect without debating the crisis any more.

Al-Ahram described the agreement as a "new attempt to solve the Middle East crisis" and said the "essential difference" between Goldberg and Dobrynin centred mainly on the problem of withdrawing Israeli troops from their present positions.

The Soviet Union, the newspaper said, insists that Israel should withdraw its troops to the positions they held before the June war while the United States does not want Jerusalem included in the territories from which the Israelis should withdraw.

Police Rap Careless Motorists

Doors Open for Thieves

By BRIAN DOHERTY

Forty-five per cent of the property stolen in Victoria in August was taken from cars. Up until Sept. 30, there were 180 cars stolen in Victoria, compared with 179 for the same period last year.

Most of the thefts were the result of carelessness by motorists — cars left un-

"It is always very tempting when merchandise is left in an unlocked car," said Detective-Inspector William Andrews.

All but one of the stolen cars were recovered in the nine-month period, but many of them were wrecked by the joy-riding youths who borrowed them.

Inspector Andrews suggested: "Don't leave your keys in the car, and make sure you lock it."

The police can charge a motorist under section 182 (c) of the Motor Vehicle Act for leaving the key in the ignition.

The location of many stolen cars is made harder when the owners know nothing about their cars.

"So many don't know the registration number, make or model of their car," Inspector Andrews said.

He suggested motorists carry full particulars of their cars with them.

Transistor radios, cameras and batteries are favorite booty for car thieves who prey among parked cars. Many area hotels and motels suggest to tourists that they not leave valuables in their cars, but there was a case in August of an American losing more than $1,000 worth of property from his locked car.

In July there were 35 cases of thefts from cars, involving $1,643.43. In September there were 21 reported cases, involving $521.

Theft from cars is becoming more popular among juveniles who rifle through cars searching for valuables left in unlocked glove compartments. One city police officer said: "They find it safer than shoplifting."

Through unlocked doors, the grab is easy

Fatality Report Tonight

A report will be turned in by Victoria police to the coroner tonight on the facts surrounding the death of a 19-year-old football player.

"After I have read the report I will be able to determine whether an inquest or an inquiry will be held," said Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre. Allan James MacDonald, 19, died Tuesday in St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was taken nine days earlier after collapsing on the bench during a football game between Oak Bay's Farmer Construction and the Victoria Hornets at Macdonald Park.

BEFORE GAME?

Mr. St. Jorre said police were investigating the possibility that the boy's injury occurred before the game. He said the boy was reported to have been hurt around Sept. 6, "but it is rather vague." Police have also been asked to check on whether he was wearing a helmet in the game.

A post mortem disclosed the cause of death was a subdural hemorrhage.

MEMORIAL FUND

Mr. St. Jorre said the injury could have been caused by a kick, a blow or a fall. Classmates of the 19-year-old boy are organizing a memorial fund to be used for an athletic trophy bearing his name.

Bookworms' Chance To Turn

Bookworms got their chance to turn Friday when a special two-day centennial book show opens at McPherson Playhouse. Mayor Hugh Stephen will open the exhibit at 2:30 p.m.

Organizer Owen Scott explained Wednesday that the show combines 700 contemporary books, and displays from the provincial archives and the public library.

Miss Scott added, "It is likely by now that the selling of Canadian books provides at least 30 per cent of a book-seller's volume."

The public library will show out-of-print books and the archives have arranged a display of rare Canadian books.

Trailer Park Rules Tougher

The provincial cabinet approved new and tougher health regulations Wednesday for mobile home parks throughout B.C.

The new regulations will require a 25-foot buffer zone surrounding the park, piped water, flush toilets and sewage facilities, as well as garbage disposal.

Premises must be kept free of vermin, rubbish and other debris, and open fires are not permitted, the regulations say.

Same Sewage Bills Offered in Saanich

Saanich taxpayers will soon be asked if they all want to pay the same sewage bills and at the same time open up land for badly-needed new homes.

It is a $6,000,000 proposal that would:

● Consolidate all existing sewage systems into a single enterprise, meaning every Saanich home would have identical sewer bills.

● Extend sewers to 3,460 acres of land that are likely to be developed in the next five years.

UNANIMOUS

Six council members at a public works committee meeting Tuesday unanimously endorsed the scheme, which will probably be approved at a regular council meeting Monday night.

A date was not set for the vote on such a referendum, but it could coincide with December's municipal election.

Added to the existing sewer area would be 3,460 acres of unserved territory running from Marigold-Glanford in the west, across the Swan Lake area, over to the southern end of the Blenkinsop Valley to Gordon Head.

The $6,000,000 bill, based on estimated 1968 costs, is made up of roughly $3,130,000 as Saanich's share of rebuilding the Macaulay Point outfall and $2,880,000 for the lateral lines in unserved areas.

The largest utility is Sewer Area No. 1 — consisting of roughly 7,000 homes which would have its costs increased.

One of the proposals presented to the committee would see those annual costs increase $13 or $14. The payments in No. 1 area now range from $21 to $31.50.

Coun. Leslie Passmore, committee chairman, said new homeowners are paying "absurd" prices for lots because of the shortage of sewerage sites.

Despite the housing shortage, permits for new home construction in Saanich this year are maintaining only the 1966 levels.

"We are down to virtually no lots, and we can't expand any further," said Municipal engineer Neville Life.

Teacher Aides Trend

Entry of non-professional teachers' aides into the classroom is a major trend in U.S. elementary education, a visiting educator said Wednesday in Victoria.

Mrs. Rebecca Mauzey of Washington, D.C., field secretary of the Association for Childhood Education, addressed the newly-formed Island branch of ACE at 4081 Gordon Head Road.

The teachers' aide performs non-teaching jobs, clerical work and lesson preparation are among her tasks.

TRIED IN VICTORIA

The innovation is being tried out in seven Greater Victoria schools this fall.

A major obstacle so far, said Mrs. Mauzey, is that teachers don't know how to use their aides effectively.

"We need to educate our professional people so they can delegate duties to other people," she said.

"People who have been in education for many years need to be taught how to work in teams."

Other trends in U.S. elementary education, said Mrs. Mauzey, are an increase of interest in kindergarten and nursery schools, more intensive scrutiny of curriculum, and education of the public to classroom needs.

Rotarians Stress Motivation

An effort to try to give one man in each of the 46 Rotary Clubs in his district motivation was promised by district governor Michael Dederer at a dinner meeting Tuesday.

He told Rotarians at the meeting at the Red Lion Inn that motivation would help them fulfill their role. Mr. Dederer referred to a magazine article that said only about 40 per cent of members knew why they joined Rotary. He said Rotarians joined the club because they wanted to serve above themselves.

Charles Ross, the first officer appointed to command Fort Victoria, will be honored in a ceremony Sunday by the Native Sons of Canada, Post No. 1, Victoria.

A seat and plaque will be unveiled at Dallas Road and St. Charles Street at 2:30 p.m. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at The Inn, 1528 Cook.

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

October 12, 1857

The want of a book postal communication between England and this Colony has long been seriously felt and the Mechanics' Institute, through their excellent secretary, Mr. W. K. Bull, have addressed a letter to the Governor requesting that steps be taken with a view of securing to this community the advantage resulting from this very desirable object. In reply to this communication, the Governor, through his private secretary, states that a copy of the letter of the institute will be forwarded to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and that the subject will again be brought under the notice of the Home Government.

The California—A private despatch received last evening from San Francisco states that the steamship California sailed on Monday evening last for Victoria via Portland.

Merger Brief Incomplete—Councillors

Two North Saanich councillors have charged in a brief that the Stevenson-Kellogg report, which recommended amalgamation of Sidney and North Saanich, overlooked many psychological, historical and economic factors.

Councillors Clifford Adams and Trevor Davis said the report left out factors that were important to the welfare and happiness of North Saanich residents.

The report projected a combined population of Sidney-North Saanich of 10,200 in 1973. This figure and date were used as the date the finances involved in the amalgamation would rise from a loss of $25,000 yearly to a gain of $35,400 a year.

The brief said the Stevenson-Kellogg estimate of the population growth was undocumented and unsupported. It noted that to reach the population cited in the report, a 9.1-per cent growth would be required. The record from 1961 to 1966 showed a growth rate of 4.45 per cent. From 1956 to 1966, the average growth was 3.75 per cent.

The brief indicated this would mean a population of 10,200 would not be reached until 1978.

PRIMARY AIM The brief said the primary objective in the incorporation of North Saanich as a municipality was to secure direct control over zoning and land use.

It expressed the fear that council might not be able to preserve the rural atmosphere of North Saanich if it contained a large urban population.

CONFLICT BEEN The brief added that amalgamation would lead to a conflict of interest between rural and urban parts of the municipality, and suggested that two municipalities could speak with greater authority at conferences.

Demolition Order May Come Today

A demolition order may be issued at today's meeting of city council telling the owners of the unfinished apartment complex at Topaz and Quadra to get it down within 30 days.

Members of city council public works committee decided at a recent meeting that the owners had had plenty of warning and that the dilapidated building was not only an eyesore but an actual danger. They decided at this time to issue a demolition order at today's city council meeting, to take effect within a month.

City Manager Dennis Young said at that time that there had been some hope that the build-

Once she heard of a millinery sale and got down to the store at 7:00 a.m. to make certain she was the first one in the store when the doors opened.

Yesterday, Thelma met me for lunch wearing a dress that I wouldn't put on the end of a mopstick. She said she was going "bargain-hunting" and wanted to look "down and out." I was shocked at her appearance. Is she crazy as my husband says? — BEMUSED

Ontario Wedding Of Interest Here

Victoria shared interest with Clinton, Ont., in the double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage Marion Faye Carter and Mr. Thomas Campbell Pickett. Dr. A. J. Mowatt officiated at the wedding in Wesley Willis United Church, Clinton, for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carter, Clinton, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Pickett, 3558 Elliston Avenue.

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose an elegant princess style gown in imported frosted silk sonesta and featuring a deep "v" panel of silk Venetian lace and elbow-length sleeves in matching lace. A wattleau panel in cathedral length fell from back yoke of Venetian lace and a princess style coronet of seed pearls held the bride's three-tiered veil. The bride carried a bouquet of pink roses and white stephanotis on a white bible.

Miss Lynda MacDonald of Clinton was maid of honor and the Misses Rosemary Carter, Clinton, and Dawn and Barbara Pickett, both of Victoria, were bridesmaids. The Misses Nancy Moore, London, Ont., and Cathy Carter, Kitchener, Ont., were flower girls.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids were gowned alike in slim-fitting dresses of pink chiffon over silk tulle accented with Venetian lace en tone.

Linda Smith Bride Of James D. Burnett

A motor trip to Oregon followed the recent wedding of Linda Gail Smith and James Douglas Burnett, who exchanged vows before Rev. John Vickers at an evening ceremony in All Saints Church, View Royal.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Smith and Mr. Les Smith, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnett, all of Victoria.

For the double-ring ceremony, at which she was given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of mauve de sole with a lace bodice. Her floor-length veil, fastened at her shoulders, was trimmed with Chantilly lace.

A headpiece trimmed with rhinestones held her three-tier veil of illusion net. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow tulle roses with carnations.

For something old, she chose a 14-centimetre hankie belonging to the groom's 87-year-old grandmother.

Her attendants were Miss Sharon Christy, Mrs. Beverly Braithwaite and Miss Becky Lakeburg, who wore street-length dresses of mauve de sole with matching headpieces of self fabric flowers and nylon net. They carried cascades of sheila chrysanthemums.

Dorina Lyn Kidd, niece of the groom, was flower girl, in a dress of yellow brocade. She carried a mauve and yellow bouquet.

Mr. Jim Braithwaite was best man and ushers were Mr. Keith Nixon and Mr. John Humphries.

As the couple left on their honeymoon following a reception at Gorge Vale Golf Club, the bride wore a green wool suit with brown accessories and corsage of gardenias and Stephanotis.

Their future address will be 1214 Carlisle Street, Esquimalt.

South Seas Trip

Holy Trinity Church at Patricia Bay was beautifully decorated with dahlias in shades of pale gold, apricot and plum and plum foliage for the wedding of Miss Dorothy Wendy Harris and Mr. Robert Calvert Simson.

Rev. Canon F. C. Vaughan-Birch officiated at the noon ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Ronald Harris, 1262 Land's End Road, Sidney, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Simson, Vancouver.

The bride who walked to the altar with her father chose a simply styled floor-length A-line dress of ivory Thai silk fashioned with bell sleeves. A bouquet of gardenias and white chrysanthemum tips matched the flowers in her hair.

Mrs. Allen D. Campbell of Calgary was her sister's only attendant. She wore a gown styled like the bride's gown in pale gold pure silk with headband of the same material. Her small bouquet was of autumn flowers.

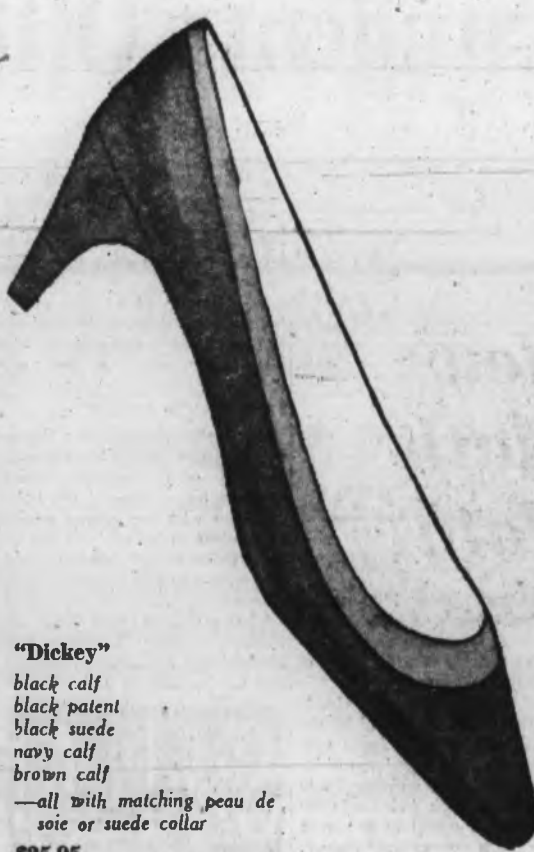

Mr. Gerald McGavin of Vancouver was best man and Mr. John S. Simson, brother of the groom and Mr. Jack McLennan of Vancouver showed guests to the pews.

A buffet luncheon followed at the Deep Cove Chalet. Mr. James Squit proposed the bridal toast.

After a honeymoon in Tahiti and Hawaii the couple will make their home in Victoria. For travelling the bride chose a three-piece light cherry suit with camel accessories.

It costs so little to make a photo talk

When a family grows up and goes its several ways, when a job that has to be done separates you by thousands of miles from near and dear ones, there's a gap left that photographs only partly fill. And yet, it takes only a minute—and costs so little—to pick up your phone and make that beloved photo talk.

As the years pass by, the telephone becomes one of the strongest links holding scattered families together. On birthdays and other special anniversaries—on occasions like Easter, Mother's Day, Father's Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas—a long distance call is "the next best thing to being there."

If you travel frequently on business or have to spend extended periods away from home, be sure to arm yourself with a B.C. TEL Long Distance Credit Card. It enables you to call long distance from any phone in the country to any other phone and charge the call to your personal or business account.

Quick Reaction to Esquimalt Litter Story

Students Offer to Clean Up Store Areas

By NANCY BROWN

Grade 10 students at Esquimalt Junior High school have volunteered to clean up litter around local stores, principal

New Math Path

Esquimalt junior high school principal Donald A. Smith said his school is conducting an experiment with one group of mathematics pupils.

"We have a group of Grade 9 students under Leonard Hawkins, and they are giving a new system the acid test," he said. "The students divide into groups and work independently at their own speed at the area of the math course they choose."

HELP AVAILABLE

"Mr. Hawkins is there to help as needed. "These are not our best pupils by any means," he added, "but I think results are showing up already. The pupils seem to be eager to work, instead of automatically rebelling at facts being crammed down their throats."

Students Flock To University

KINGSTON (CP) — Queen's University must find a way to slow down its rapid enrolment before next year, President Dr. J. A. Corry said. He said Queen's is not equipped to become an institution of 10,000 to 20,000 students. This year's enrolment is just over 6,000—an increase of four per cent over last year.

Donald A. Smith, said Wednesday. "They were pretty shocked at the story in Saturday morning's paper about litter outside the local stores, and I've agreed to let them do the work they want to do," he said.

"I'm sorry about the story, because it seems to me that all the students are getting the blame for what a few are doing."

MERCHANTS ANGRY

The story, quoting Esquimalt's Head Street merchants, claimed sticky-fingered school children have angered the businessmen who are taking action to prevent pilfering, and diminish mounds of candy and cigarette wrappers around their stores.

The principal said that on Friday evening students had cleaned up the school grounds and the immediate vicinity.

"When we came back to school after the holidays there was a lot of litter around again, so I don't think it's only our students who are to blame."

He said he realized the problem being faced by local merchants who are losing money because of pilfering, but said he felt they could help themselves.

TELL PARENTS

"While there are always a few youngsters whom you can do nothing with, I'm sure a lot of trouble could be cleared up if parents were told of any complaints."

Mr. Smith said that this year four pages of rules and regulations had been scrapped by the school, and one basic rule substituted.

"All we ask is that the students act in a responsible manner, and I'm convinced that they are responding to the idea."

FEWER BEERS

"Despite Saturday's story, we have actually had fewer complaints about the students this year."

"I can feel a different attitude within the school, and there has also been less absenteeism than at this time last year, although

I can't be sure of the reason for this."

Mr. Smith said there had been some problems, especially now that students were allowed out of the grounds without permission.

"In other years we have had to police the grounds, and the students would feel challenged to try to get out. It was like a prison," said Mr. Smith.

LIKE PRISON

"Now we have this problem with a very few of the students outside the grounds, but I'm sure that even these will gradually accept responsibility for themselves."

"It isn't the kind of thing that can be judged overnight, and I do hope the community will have a little patience."

Vote Rejects Water Plan

CRANBROOK (CP) — Ratepayers rejected $36 to $43 a plan to spend $325,000 on improving the city's water system. The money was to cover locating wells to augment present water supply and to extend and improve distribution.

Health Cost Higher

Twenty-two thousand members of Government Employees Medical Services, including members of the provincial legislature, will pay more for their health coverage.

The provincial cabinet Wednesday approved a rate increase from $2.50 to $2.75 a month for single persons, from $5 to $5.50 for those with one dependent, and from $6.25 to $6.50 for those with two or more dependents.

The increased rates are effective Dec. 1, the cabinet order said, but increased deductions will begin in November.

Evan Roberts, secretary-treasurer of GEMS, said the reason for the increase was rising costs.

Courtroom Parade

Flight from Self Leads to Prison

A man who said he keeps running away from himself was sentenced Wednesday to one month in jail for stealing a car.

The sentence, by Magistrate William Ostler in central magistrate's court, will add 10 days to the sentence already being served in Wilkinson Road jail by Derwood Scott McFayden, 27.

He told the court that he had taken the car last December to drive 12 miles into town from the Saskatoon turkey farm where he was working.

He left the car there and hitchhiked to B.C.

"Things had been building up and I was running away from myself," McFayden told the court.

A record which included theft, forgery, false pretences, motor vehicle theft and driving without the owner's consent, dating back to October, 1958, was read.

McFayden was due to be released on Nov. 1, court was told.

An American transient, Dawn Kay Ely, 24, was remanded until October 18 for pre-sentence report after she pleaded guilty to six counts of false pretences.

The charges arose after cheques given in payment for clothing were returned to Woolco and Hudson's Bay Company marked "not sufficient funds."

The woman said she has been in hospital where she underwent emergency surgery and could not remember the circumstances surrounding the offences.

A man who is serving time in Wilkinson Road jail pleaded guilty to three charges of passing worthless cheques in Fort McMurray, Alta., on Dec. 22, 1936.

John Hutchison, 26, of no fixed address was sentenced to eight months on each charge, to run concurrently, after he said he wanted to leave jail with a clean sheet.

The sentence will add three months to the time he has to serve, as the previous release date was March 15.

David B. Kemash, 19, HMCS Saskatoon, was fined $35 after he was found in possession of liquor in Saxe Point Park.

Wax Case Interest Academic

Settlement in Chancery Court, London, of the long-standing case of Tussaud versus Tussaud has only academic interest here, William Emsan, president of the Royal London Wax Museum, said Tuesday.

"The settlement has no bearing in North America and we will, in Victoria and the other franchise outlets in North America, continue to operate under the same name," Mr. Emsan said.

NAME CHANGE

The action in England was brought by Madame Tussaud's Ltd., operator of the famed wax museum in London, against the firms of Josephine Tussaud and Co., Josephine Tussaud Ltd. and Keith Leopold Holland Gems, a partner in one of the firms accused and a director in the second.

The company which instituted the action alleged that the two accused firms and Gems supplied wax figures to North American outlets intending that the name Tussaud be wrongly used.

TRADE MARK

Terms of the settlement provided that the firm Josephine Tussaud carry on no further business in the United Kingdom and that the name Tussaud no longer be used as part of the trademark.

The settlement also provides that Gems must resign his directorship in every company in the United States and Canada using the title Tussaud in any form as name or trademark, and he must not seek re-election even in the event that these companies change their names.

Banks Face New Rules

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian borrowing from his bank must be told the true cost of his loan under new regulations that take effect across the country Monday.

Rules which will bind banks to a single, uniform way of calculating interest were announced Wednesday by Finance Minister Sharp and published in the Canada Gazette.

Required by recent amendments to the Bank Act, they apply primarily to loans of $25,000 and less to individuals and small businesses.

SMALL BORROWERS

Sharp's statement said the regulations should help consumers and small borrowers make meaningful comparisons of the credit costs charged by lending institutions.

A series of federal-provincial consultations promise that parallel legislation will be applied to trust and loan companies and sales finance companies under provincial jurisdiction.

As of Monday, banks must disclose the cost of borrowing in writing, either as part of their contract with a borrower or in a separate statement.

Bank advertisements must make a similar disclosure.

All interest and discount charges must be included in the computation.

Current formulae give slightly varying rates for the same dollar cost of credit. The new regulations will express the cost of borrowing in terms of a nominal annual percentage rate.

Where loans are to be repaid over a period of up to five years, not only the annual percentage rate but total borrowing costs in dollars and cents must be disclosed.

SOME EXEMPT

Exempt from the regulations are loans where the cost of borrowing consists only of a fixed minimum charge of not more than $5, credit granted by overdraft, and mortgage loans, where disclosure is already guaranteed under existing legislation.

Also excluded are loans made on letter of credit; loans resulting from discount of a negotiable instrument; and loans made under federal or provincial legislation prescribing maximum rates of interest that a bank may charge.

Governor's Wife Improving

QUEBEC (CP)—Mrs. Willibald MacDonald, wife of the lieutenant-governor of Prince Edward Island, may be able to leave hospital in about three weeks providing her condition continues to improve.

Dr. Jean Sirois, who performed a delicate three-hour operation for a head injury suffered by Mrs. MacDonald Monday in a highway collision at nearby St. Romuald, said Mrs. MacDonald "is reacting well" and is almost out of danger.

Labor Needs Politics—Strachan

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—The provincial leader of the New Democratic Party said Tuesday more persons in the labor movement should become involved in politics if they want legislation drafted on their behalf.

Robert Strachan said that "workers will have to become more politically involved."

"I am concerned there are many people in the trade union movement who try and avoid politics and political action."

Mr. Strachan told a meeting of the International Woodworkers of America that 75 lawyers hold seats in the House of Commons and that more and more professional men are taking seats in the B.C. legislature.

He said these men cannot be representative of the 75 or 80 per cent of the population who comprise the labor force.

Barbara Burt

MONTREAL, October 12th—If you couldn't write cheques on your savings account, wouldn't it be easier to save? THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA offers the new "Blue Chip" savings account, paying 4 1/2% interest with no chequing privileges to tempt you.

There are other good Scotiabank plans, too. Like 6-year Savings Certificates that pay $100 for every $75 invested. And the regular savings account, with 3 1/2% interest and full chequing privileges. Last—but not least—a handy way to stick to the plan you choose. Called the Scotiabank Budget Book, it's free at your nearest branch.

IRREGULARITY MAY OCCUR any time of year but especially if a change of seasons also means a change of diet. It often does, you know. A reliable remedy you should know about—and which I recommend highly—is SARAKA®, a pleasant-tasting vegetable laxative designed for older folk, but fine for people of all ages. SARAKA, a Pharmaco (Canada) Ltd. product, comes in the form of chocolate-coated granules. Taken with a glass of water, they form a soft, gentle bulk that brings dependable relief from irregularity. Saraka is available at your favourite drug counter.

PEACE OF MIND... that's what you will enjoy when NUPERCALIN® CREAM is in your medicine cabinet. I've found, for my family, it is the only all-purpose first aid cream—and it is both antiseptic and anesthetic. It's wonderful to be able to recommend a product that takes care of those emergencies that arise in every household—minor cuts—skin irritations (even acne and diaper rash). And I have found Nupercalin Cream has the most soothing and relaxing effects when applied generously and gently to tired and aching feet! Do get Nupercalin All-Purpose Antiseptic Cream, available at drugstores everywhere.

Complexion Beauty

The secret of beautifying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of tropical moist oil. The skin takes on an immediate healthy bloom as the tiny lines and blemishes are gently smoothed away. This saturation treatment with the moist oil of Olay is recommended by skin care consultants, who advise its daily use as a powder base to give the complexion day-long beauty. Your druggist will help you to obtain a supply for your personal needs.

Officially White —Still Spurned

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Sandra Laing is the dark-skinned girl that no South African school wants.

Her parents won an 18-month-long struggle to have her officially declared white, only to discover they can't find a school that wants her. Angry parents of Sheepmoor, a tiny town in eastern Transvaal province, have threatened to remove their children from the local white primary school if 11-year-old Sandra is sent there as directed by the education department.

Sandra was going to boarding school in the country town of Pietermaritzburg 18 months ago. Parents of other pupils objected to her presence, children taunted her and eventually she was sent home by the school authorities.

Subsequently she was declared colored — that is, mulatto — by a government-appointed board, even though her parents are white. Then a change in the law provided that descent and not appearance is to be the deciding factor in borderline cases. She was reclassified white.

Sandra's storekeeper father, Abraham Laing, decided not to send her back to the same boarding school because of the scorn he felt she would meet. He approached a number of convents, but they turned him down. Some said they had no vacancies, others said the Afrikaans-speaking girl would find the English-speaking situation in the convents difficult.

Then the education department notified Laing he must apply for Sandra to be admitted to the Sheepmoor school, the nearest their home.

Mrs. E. Van Tonder, mother of two pupils at the school and a member of the school committee, commented: "The day Sandra Laing sets foot in the school, my children will be taken home. And they will stay home."

151 COUNTRY HOMES AND PROPERTIES

GOT A STILL?
NEED A MOUNTAIN?

376 Acres of backwoods seclusion offered to the last of the mountain men. Genuine old log cabin set in a little valley where you can whoop and holler till your throat dries run off. Surrounding hills are points where you can lay back, squirrel gun in hand and observe the ravens, approaching on horseback, wheels or by schooner.
If you have a wild mind toward distilling grapes rather than corn squirrels you may even find a sunny spot to grow dem grapes.
If you're just too dog tired in wood to fire up the still, you can hang the worm on your pressure cooker, plus in the beauty of the with the hillsides on T.V. while R.C. Hydro extracts the juice from the mash. The young will enjoy a new and old life from the scenic old outposts. If you've been hearing a bag of condemned currency and want a spot to hang the coin then then get with it. On terms.

Breakers roll in on lonely Long Beach, isolated by a slide

Four-year-old Wickaninnish Inn was cut off by mud

Some Stride Through Mud At Lonely Long Beach

LONG BEACH — Some residents and tourists, stranded here by a mud slide 12 feet high and 20 yards long across the Long Beach Road, have been forced to walk out.

The slide blocked the road at the weekend when a large section of an embankment collapsed after heavy rains. It is about two miles from the junction of the Tofoino-Uchuellet Highway.

"The people who have walked out have been able to easily hitch lifts, there has been no real transportation problem," Robin Fellis, manager of Long Beach's Wickaninnish Inn said Wednesday night.

"The buses are still running, and E.C.
Airlines' planes are too."

He said the slide, south of the Inn, had cut off 12 houses.

"Luckily no one was injured, and no property was damaged," he said.

Highways Department crews, using a shovel loader on a tractor, expect the road to be passable this morning.

Light rain fell on the west coast during Wednesday.

Mr. Fellis, who said there were two remaining guests staying at the inn, described the blocked road as "an inconvenience, but not a handicap."

"People have left their cars here and intend coming back for them later in the week," he said.

No utility or telephone poles were brought down by the slide.

Rats Worry Duncan

DUNCAN — "Something must be done about the rats, or they will invade our city," Ald. Barney Cocks complained.

He referred to the city's garbage dump about which the Cowichan Indians voiced complaints in a letter to the city.

"I don't think it is that bad that we have to alarm the people," replied Ald. Tom Kilpatrick.

The dump is located on the Indian reserve and although the hand agrees with the city council that there should be no shooting of rats, they deplore the dump management.

Canada New Centre of Affection

Love of Old Homeland Warms Dutch Couple

A new Canadian must love his homeland if he is to love his new land, says Bernhard Sekreve, 548 Bastion, one of the first people to become naturalized in Victoria under the present citizenship laws.

He and his wife Louisa represented the spirit of Holland in a parade of nations Sunday night in Memorial Arena.

"If you can't find love in your heart for your homeland," said Mr. Sekreve, "it is hard to find it for the new land."

"I became a Canadian because I wanted to be part of Canada," he added.

Mr. and Mrs. Sekreve came to Canada in 1948, working at the office of the Netherlands consul in Victoria.

"When he died, the office was moved to Vancouver, but we stayed here. They had altered the citizenship laws just before this, and in 1953 we became Canadians."

Now 67, Mr. Sekreve was for many years a town planner in The Hague before he came to Canada.

When he left the consular service, he worked in the Saanich engineering department.

"I think the town planners should have more say in things than they have," Mr. Sekreve observed.

"In some ways even the wartime bombing was good, although our home was destroyed. New plans were ready for Rotterdam even before the end of the war, and the city is beautiful now," he explained.

His only regret about urban renewal schemes, and the passing of old buildings for newer things, is that there isn't enough selectivity.

"Some years ago the old Prince Robert House on Douglas Street was knocked down, and it was a beautiful building. I bought doors and other parts of the old house, and put them into my house," he said.

Now retired, he still gives his time and talents to his adopted country.

"My wife and I love to sing, and we still sing to the different pensioners' groups and to rest homes."

He collects items connected with royalty — and this has been a bonanza year for his 10-year-old hobby.

Indians Urge Salmon for New Crest

Chief Ed Underwood of East Saanich Reserve has proposed that Central Saanich incorporate a salmon as one of the symbols on its proposed municipal crest.

Central Saanich council has already appointed a committee to select a suitable design for the crest. The committee will report back to council at a later date. Chief Underwood expressed the hope that the designers would not neglect the symbols of the Coast Salish people who once occupied Saanich Peninsula.

He said both Indians and early white settlers were once dependent on the salmon for survival.

A ceremony and ritual were held with the arrival of the first salmon to spawn in the rivers and creeks, he said.

The first salmon to be speared was cut up, cooked and shared among members of the fisherman's family, and the bones were thrown back into the water "to ensure that the salmon people would return again the next year."

Other suggestions for crest symbols have ranged from daffodils to strawberries.

One other reason for having the salmon on the crest would be to remind us of a great species which once numbered in the billions, and which now is in the process of being exterminated," said the chief.

Thieves Go All-Out for Peanuts

Working for peanuts, thieves stole a vending machine from Hawkes Bros. Garage, 404 Moss, overnight Tuesday.

Entry was gained by using a crowbar on the door into the workshop, then breaking an inside window into another part of the building.

A safe in the room was not touched, but a peanut machine was taken from the office and was later found smashed in the grounds of Sir James Douglas school.

One large and one small crowbar were left behind by the culprit, according to city police.

Silk Prints Impress In One-Man Display

By INA D. D. UTHOFF
Donald Harvey, assistant professor of fine arts at the University of Victoria, has returned to the city after a year in England and Greece on a Canada Council senior fellowship, and is holding an exhibition of oils, oil pastels and silk screen prints at 1208 Wharf Street until Oct. 26.

It is the silk screen prints that are outstanding in this collection, Mr. Harvey has made himself a master of this particular medium.

POWERFUL COLOR
The designs are well controlled, color schemes are powerful and the artist has developed a technique of subtlety and wide range.

Two particularly noticeable ones are The Great Romance and Rosette, with their clear and aggressive use of pure vermilion red. Then we look along and find Soft Centre, in black, tan, cerise and white, a beautiful low-keyed harmony, and a subtle composition, Shall We Dance?

Tumble is an effective use of rhythmic movement, while Aegean Passage is best described as a unique print. What I like about Prof. Harvey's exhibition is that he has shown us what benefit he has gained by his year away from teaching and how he has been enabled to develop his craftsmanship in one particular medium, the silk screen print.

I am not particularly interested in his oils and large-scale canvasses, as no development is evident in them from a year ago.

FELLOWSHIP
A Canada Council fellowship is not something that can be won in open competition. It is granted on the decision of an appointed group handling the yearly interest of the large sum of money bequeathed by two wealthy industrialists to help painters, musicians, writers and other creative members of the arts to establish themselves or to indulge in research in their particular field or fields.

Dud Bills Pass In City

Counterfeit $10 bills being passed in the Victoria area are part of a series of thousands which began circulating mostly in eastern Canada in 1966, city detectives said Wednesday.

So far, nine have turned up in the city, all passed Saturday in small restaurants or news stands.

THINNER PAPER

They are very good facsimiles of real bills, detectives said, although they are printed on somewhat thinner and lighter paper than real banknotes.

"The bills don't have any planchettes (small green dots embedded in the paper), which can always be seen if a bill is held up to the light," said the detectives.

Of the nine bills turned in to city police, seven bear the serial number P-T 873428, and the other two are numbered P-T 2436510 and R-D 714548.

WATER MARK

They are also printed on watermarked paper, whereas banknote paper has no water mark.

One of the fake bills was passed to a Victoria Steelers raffle ticket salesman at Mayfair, and another at the Maple Leaf Cafe, 1213 Douglas.

Guide to Bulb Care

By M. V. CHESNUT

A few weeks ago I wrote a series of articles for this column giving in detail the procedures for taking up and wintering the various bulbs and tubers which are too tender to remain in the ground and must be given indoor protection through the winter months. However, I am still getting quite a few letters asking what to do about the dahlias, the gladioli and the tuberous begonias, so I thought it might serve a useful purpose if I did a capsule review of the proper treatment for each of our common summer bulbs.

GLADIOLI — Glad bulbs are taken up about four weeks after the flowers finish, or as soon as the tops are killed by frost, whichever comes first. The topgrowth is cut off close to the bulb, and as there is a lot of disease and thrips in the tops this year, they should be stacked loosely to dry out, and eventually burned. Even healthy gladioli tops are not much good in the compost heap as they rot down into a slimy, smelly mass.

No particular effort is made to clean up the bulbs at this stage. Dust them with bulb dust or any kind of garden dust you happen to have handy, and store them in shallow trays or boxes. For their first two weeks indoors, keep them in a warm but well-ventilated place at a temperature between 75 and 85 degrees.

This warmth is needed for the drying and curing of the bulbs. The curing process is completed when it is possible to twist off the old, withered, last year's spent bulb from the bottom of the new one. If it comes away easily and all in one piece, you can clean up your bulbs and give them another dusting, this time paying particular attention to the newly-exposed root scar on the bottom. Store in an airy, cool place; I keep mine in old nylon stockings hung from a rafter in a very cool corner of our basement.

DAHLIAS — Under certain conditions, it is possible to leave dahlia roots in the ground all winter, and in some cases they actually store better this way than indoors. For success, though, the soil should be sandy or gravelly and very well drained, for the dormant tubers will rot in sodden ground.

Moreover, the site must be free from slugs, which have an incurable penchant for the sugar in dahlia roots.

Leaving them in the ground like this, though, is just a storage device, not a permanent planting. They must still be taken up in the spring, divided into individual tubers, and replanted in the usual way.

Where the soil is heavy and drainage is something less than perfect, dahlias are taken up in late October or about a week after the tops are blackened by frost, whichever comes first. Cut away the tops about four inches above the roots and store the root clumps temporarily spread out on sheets of newspapers spread out on the basement floor. Dust lightly with bulb dust or any all-purpose garden dust, as for gladioli, to protect against pests and storage rot diseases.

After about 10 days on their newspapers, clean up the clumps and bury them in boxes or cartons of peat moss or vermiculite, placing them in a very cool place to discourage premature sprouting. Ideal storage temperature is between 40 and 45 degrees.

Sir Ronald Meets The Nixon

All right, children, just one more fairy tale about Sir Ronald of Hollywood. How about the time Sir Ronald met The Nixon? Well, as you recall, Sir Ronald, accompanied by his faithful squire, Sancho Notzger, was deep in the gloomy muck of The Tangled Thicket, hacking The Budget, laying waste to Waste, and performing other heroic deeds to succor the enslaved people of his Golden State.

Suddenly, from out of a foggy bog ahead, rode a seeming apparition, a knight clothed all in battered black armor, his shield bearing a thousand dents, his sword nicked, his crest fallen.

"What manner of creature is this?" said Sir Ronald, laying his hand on the hilt of his feared Swinging Sword.

"Oh, Sir, it is The Nixon!"

whispered Sancho with a shudder. "Pray, slay him speedily for he is accursed. Smell you not the sickly odor of defeat? I fear he will trick you, for his cleverness is the cleverness of ten."

"Silence, varlet," said Sir Ronald. "Look, this Nixon makes friendly overtures."

"Hi. Hi, there. Hi," said The Nixon, extending his hand with a smile. "I mean no harm. For, lo, these 20 years I have wandered in The Tangled Thicket seeking The Holy Grail. And at last (here, his eyes burned fiercely), I have it almost within my grasp. Again. Now, with your help..."

"Trust him not, sire," whispered Sancho nervously. "While you would easily prove his master in open combat, you are no match for him at all in deviousness and cunning."

"A noble deduction, Sir Knight," said Sir Ronald, ignoring his squire. "But tell me, do you seek this Holy Grail for yourself or in the name of all that I hold dear, Decency, Purity, and Just Plain Goodness?"

"Oh, the latter," said The Nixon quickly. "I think of little else. And if you help me get it," he added, looking over his shoulder, "I will reward you beyond the wildest dreams of avarice."

"I seek only to serve the people of my Golden State," said Sir Ronald nobly.

"You don't seek The Holy Grail yourself then?" said The Nixon with a sigh of relief. "Well, that's a help."

"It is? Then I shall be glad to help you," said Sir Ronald, thrusting forth his chin. "Indeed, I shall ride forth to

Beatles to Meditate

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — The time has come and the Beatles are packing for India. Just a robe or two for the three months of meditating at the feet of Maharishi at Swargarham on the banks of the River Ganges.

Mrs. Rex Harrison — Rachel Roberts — may beat Elizabeth Taylor to that damned spot of blood in Macbeth. But Rachel wants to play the biggest witch of them all on stage. Elizabeth is planning the part for the cinema, with Richard Burton as Macbeth, I hope.

Deborah Kerr and Trevor Howard are the winners this year for the most popular British stars at the film festival in Sorrento, Italy. They are both among the top in my own popularity poll... former actress Anita Louise is hoping to collect $12,000 from Frank Sinatra for damages she claims were inflicted on carpets, draperies and upholstery by his five dogs when he rented her home in Beverly Hills. There's never a dull day for Frankie boy, is there?

Every time Sandy Dennis is nominated for an acting award, she romps home with it. A Tony for Armstrong, the Oscar for Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? and the best actress award in Moscow for Up the Down Staircase. It was only three years ago that Sandy was sitting in my living room telling me she couldn't get a break in Hollywood although she was willing to test for everything and anything that came along.

Diane Edith Evans is bound to be nominated for an Oscar for her realistic emoting in The Whisperers, which I personally found too depressing. But she is marvellous. The actress who will be 80 next birthday spends her weekends studying films. She sees as many as six on Saturday and Sunday. Whether her roles are big or small makes no difference to her. She recently completed a bit role in Prudence and the Pill. She's just happy to be working.

It reminds me of the late British actor A. E. Matthews, who was still performing when he was 93. A friend asked him, "How does it feel to go to the theatre night after night at your age?" "I'll tell you," replied A.E. "Every morning when I get up I read the obituaries in the Times and if I'm not in, I go to the theatre that night."

Rock Hudson to play John Wayne's son? Rock is six feet four, Wayne is six feet four... John Stearns of The Great Escape and The Magnificent Seven, is planning a western version of Texas Bulbs in which Tony Curtis gave the worst performance of his career as the son of Yul Brynner. Rock is working for Stearns in Ice Station Zebra, and he likes the idea. "The only other western I've made outside of Giant which was not really a western," says Rock, "is Taza, son of Cochise. They put a black wig on me and I was instant Indian." He'd rather forget the experience.

Lawrence and Lee, or is it Lee and Lawrence, are calling their musical adaptation of The Mad Woman of Chailiot, Tomorrow Morning, because said Lee or was it Lawrence, "people are always saying I'll do it first thing tomorrow morning." I won't go into all the L. and L. Broadway credits, but just mention the most recent, Mame, which stars Angela Lansbury.

Mia Farrow is playing Frank Sinatra's girl friend in The Detective. Isn't she too young to play Frankie's girl friend? The film with Sinatra on the right side of the law starts filming next week in New York.

Egoists Welcome

A schoolboy writes in to ask the difference between the words "egotist" and "egoist."

Well, the dictionary distinction may be a fine one, but in the world of psychology there is a tremendous difference between the man who is an "egotist" and the one who is an "egoist."

The first is offensively self-concerned. An egotistic person is generally small of spirit and focused on himself. He wants to take, to inflate himself at the expense of others, to raise himself by depreciating them.

The egoist — and all great prophets, artists and creative persons generally are egoists — is often magnanimous and large of spirit. He usually has a great deal of verve and an active sense of humor about himself.

A few of my dearest friends are egoists, and they are thoroughly enjoyable — for I know that they are not adding to themselves by taking away from me. They are not selfish, or envious, in petty ways, as the egotist always is.

This distinction has more than verbal importance; it may help us in revising our estimates of people we know.

For some people, at slight acquaintance, seem to be egotists — but as we study them more deeply, we can see that they are really egoists of a harmless sort.

People have said to me, "I don't see how you can like so-and-so; he's always talking about himself and his projects."

The true egoist pulls everything inward from the periphery of his life to the centre of his little personality; the egotist pushes outward from the core and spills over. This is sometimes messy or unpleasant, but never vicious.

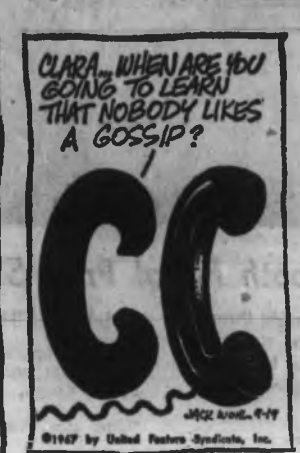

A great figure such as Goethe, for instance, was a monumental egoist; so much so that it is impossible to separate the man from the writer. But his egotism was informed with goodwill and spiculousness and charity toward others — which makes his writings warm and delightful, even when he is most involved in examining his own soul.

The ego is a marvelous instrument for expressing the best that is in us; only when it is crippled or perverted by poor early training does it produce the egotist who expresses the worst that is in him.

Bonner Going on Study-Tour*Decision Time Nearing On Super-Port ProjectBy IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Basic policy decisions are imminent regarding establishment of the proposed super-port at Roberts Bank on the Lower Mainland, Commercial Transport Minister Bonner said Wednesday.

Mr. Bonner leaves by air Sunday on a two-week tour of major ports in Europe, Britain and on the eastern seaboard of the U.S. The purpose of the trip, he said, is to gain the necessary background on the most up-to-date method of handling bulk and container cargoes before the provincial government makes some big decisions.

MAJOR CONCERN

Asked if the policy decision involved establishment of bulk loading facilities at Roberts Bank, for which the provincial government is empowered to borrow up to $25,000,000 under legislation passed last spring,

Mr. Bonner indicated this was the government's major concern.

"I think you can say the basic go or stop decision is imminent," he added.

Roberts Bank, immediately to the north of the Tsawwassen ferry terminal, was proposed as a bulk-handling port facility for ships of 100,000 tons or more during early stages of negotiations between Crows Nest Industries Ltd. and Japanese steel interests.

HELD UP

These negotiations are still in progress, although, officials said, the lack of firm transportation arrangements appears to be holding them up.

A spokesman said such matters as capacity of loading facilities, among other questions still unresolved, made agreement at this stage on price difficult if not impossible.

Mr. Bonner noted that Japanese interests recently stated they felt "considerable reservations" about facilities in the port of Vancouver.

NOT COMPETING

He added: "I still maintain that Roberts Bank is not in competition with the port of Vancouver because it promises only to provide facilities which Vancouver cannot furnish."

Mr. Bonner, accompanied by deputy commercial transport minister Jack Bowring, flies Sunday from Vancouver to Amsterdam. He will spend two days each in Rotterdam and Antwerp, then fly to London for several days of talks and inspections of the Port of London.

On Oct. 28 he flies to New York for two days and then to Elizabeth, N.J., one of the world's largest facilities for handling containerized cargo, before coming home.

For New Coins*Clink Not Clunk

OTTAWA (CP) — New silver-copper 10 and 25 cent coins have been circulating in Canada for a month and nobody seems to notice the difference, N. A. Parker, master of the Royal Canadian Mint, said Wednesday.

The government announced Aug. 18 that the new coins, an alloy of half silver and half copper, would be used for the balance of the year because of the mounting cost of nearly-pure silver.

Next year, the mint will issue nickel coinage.

NO COMMENTS

Parker would not say, in an interview, what date the new silver-copper coins were first distributed to the banks, or what quantity and value of them are in circulation.

"We don't like to talk about that because it leads to speculation," he said.

"The coins have been in circulation for about a month, and nobody seems to know the difference. We've had no comment on them."

The silver-copper coins, when sound of the new copper-nickel new, look the same as all-silver U.S. quarters.

The new American coins are counter-top or thrown into a till drawer, sound the same. They don't have the dead "clunk" pieces of cupro-nickel.

More Failures Sure If Classes Too Big

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for the British Columbia Teachers Federation says failure rates would soar if school classes were increased to 100 or more students.

Charles Ovans, general secretary of the federation, was commenting Tuesday on remark by Herb Capozzi, Social Credit MLA for Vancouver Centre.

Capozzi said school classes should be increased to 100 or more students with the use of modern technological aids. He said that with the aid of computers and other machines teachers should be able to impart maximum knowledge to a class of 100 or more.

Ovans said huge classes would turn schools into mere knowledge factories.

"Do we want to treat students as mere units of production in a knowledge factory?" asked Ovans.

"We can have classes conducted on a mass scale, but it would mean a lot of casualties among the students."

Series Aces Duel in Finale

BOSTON—"The World Series is going to end the way it should—our best against their best."

Boston slugger Carl Yastrzemski said it Wednesday after slamming a home run and two singles to help Red Sox to an 8-4 win over St. Louis Cardinals.

He was referring to today's deciding game in which Bob Gibson, ace of the St. Louis mound staff, is scheduled to face Jim Lonborg, top hurler on the Boston club.

Gibson won the first and fourth games of the series 2-1 and 6-0 while Lonborg won the second and fifth, 5-0 and 3-1.

LIBERALS WIN BIGGER EDGE

Thatcher

REGINA (CP) — Premier Thatcher's Liberal government was returned for a second term in the Saskatchewan election Wednesday night by a slightly increased majority, but the result was almost as much of a cliff-hanger as his first victory 3½ years ago.

With election night returns complete, the Liberals had won 33 seats to 24 for the CCF.

That compared with a standing at dissolution of the last legislature of 31 Liberals, 25 CCF members, one Progressive Conservative and one vacancy.

But recounts appeared probable in a number of seats where the margin of victory was slim. Five Liberals and three CCF candidates led their opponents by less than 100 votes.

Thatcher lost two cabinet ministers, Education Minister George Trapp and Public Works Minister Wilf Gardiner, and Conservative Leader Martin Pederson was defeated by a Liberal.

LOSE IN CITIES

The CCF held its own in rural constituencies but lost ground to the Liberals in the cities, where its traditional strength lay. Government candidates unseated two CCFers in Saskatoon and captured two new urban seats to the CCF's one.

Despite a comfortable victory in his own constituency of Biggar, CCF Leader Woodrow Lloyd said he will ask his party "to consider very carefully the question of new leadership."

An incomplete tabulation of the party vote showed the Liberals and CCF running even with the Conservatives dropping sharply behind their 1964 performance.

BIGGER EDGE

Social Credit Leader Lloyd Avram was a badly-beaten fourth in Qu'Appelle-Wolseley. His five Social Credit running mates also fared badly.

Thatcher, who won by a slim 236-vote margin in 1964, finished 1,000 votes ahead of Mayor L. H. Lewry of Moose.

Guidelines? Maybe

Sharp Will Call Restraint Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said Wednesday he will call a meeting of labor, management, and other interested groups in his effort to get national support for restraints on rising prices and costs.

Whether the government will promulgate a formal set of guidelines or merely foster a general inclination towards restraint, management and consumer groups might be an overheating of the economy remains to be seen, he told the Commons.

Sources outside Parliament said earlier the minister is working towards a set of economic guidelines to be introduced at the year-end or early in 1968 after discussion with labor, management and consumer groups.

MOBILIZE OPINION

Questioned about the report by George Hees (PC-Northumberland), Sharp told the Commons he wants to organize a campaign to mobilize public opinion in support of greater stability in costs and prices.

NDP Leader Douglas asked whether the government would set up a prices review board to gather information about prices and profits. He said the rising cost of living is more critical in Canada than any other western industrialized country.

Sharp said he could not yet indicate what formal machinery might be created, but it is up to the government to give leadership and it is.

CONFERENCE

The Interim Opposition leader, Michael Starr, (PC-Ontario) asked about calling a conference. Sharp said he had already told Parliament he intended to seek the help of labor, management, and other groups, and he added that calling a meeting would be part of the program. Consumer interests would be invited.

Sources outside the House indicated the government is thinking actively of using guidelines to control rising prices and wages.

TWO STYLES

The American attempt to dampen inflationary tendencies was to limit wage increases to the country's annual growth in labor productivity. Voluntary adherence to this formula was sought, but was not obtained. The Labor government in Britain set up more formal machinery, and by severely restricting wage and price increases through a government board, succeeded in turning its inflation into deflation. Britain now is busily trying to "reflate" the economy.

Prisoner Kills Sheriff

WINAMAC, Ind. (UPI) — A county jail prisoner pulled out a smuggled gun Wednesday, fatally shot a sheriff and fled after dragging the dying officer into a cell and locking it. Sheriff Mike Lewis, 59, died in hospital less than four hours after he was shot three times by Arthur Lewis, 29, Gary, Ind., an accused tavern bandit who did not belong in the Pulaski County Jail.

Lewis was in Sheriff Lewis' jail only because the Strike County Jail at Knox, where the prisoner's case had been transferred from South Bend on a charge of venue, was not considered sufficiently secure to keep him.

Jail Flight Fatal, Vain

LAKEPORT, Calif. (UPI) — Three convicts attacked their guards Wednesday while being led through a narrow corridor from the jail to the Lake County courthouse. One officer, Dave Hoyt, 27, was killed and one of the prisoners wounded.

The prisoners were quickly subdued after the shooting by other officers and a judge who dashed to the corridor from his nearby courtroom. They had been scheduled to appear before the judge for arraignment on charges of escaping from a prison camp last month.

Israel Claims MiG Downed

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli jets Wednesday shot down an Egyptian MiG 21 fighter in a dog fight near the Suez Canal, an Israeli communiqué reported.

Disaster Victims Sent Here

The Russian merchant ship Orekhov is bound for Victoria with the bodies of eight crewmen drowned in the sudden sinking of the freighter Panosceanic Faith, about 1,700 miles west of here.

The Orekhov is due to arrive at 6 p.m. Saturday. A representative of the ship's owners, Panosceanic Tanker Corp. of New York, will be in Victoria to meet the Russian vessel and arrange for removal of the bodies.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman, Lieut. (JG) T. J. Northup, said Victoria was the Orekhov's original scheduled destination. However, King Bros. Ltd. shipping agency here reported it had no knowledge that the Orekhov had been bound here.

NO MORE FOUND

A second day of searching Wednesday located no more survivors and it is believed the death count may reach 35. Only five of the crew of 40 have been rescued.

An international search begun Wednesday involved a U.S. Navy plane and four ships, the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Dexter, the U.S. merchantman Pan American Steel Seafarer, the Japanese freighter Bristol Maru and Rocky Maru.

"A couple more ships have since arrived on the scene and a couple more are en route," Lieut. Northup said Wednesday night. "Most of the ships passing through are diverting into that area to join the search."

A Norwegian vessel, the Visund, is headed for San Pedro, Calif., with three survivors and four bodies. The Igaharu Maru is headed for Yokohama with

Luxury Car In Dive

No one was hurt, but passengers uttered a groan for owner of luxury import car that slipped its brakes in driveway at 400 Beach, rolled down and took out a guard rail, then dropped about 33 feet onto beach on its roof. Two tow trucks took almost an hour to get car, owned by Pemberton, Holmes Ltd., back to road. — (William E. John)

Mass Resignations Greet Court Order

MONTREAL (CP) — Court injunctions were issued Wednesday night ordering 6,000 striking Montreal transit workers back on the job. The court orders came shortly after many of the strikers submitted their resignations to union leaders.

Issued in Quebec City, the injunctions were to be served Wednesday night or early today.

Julien Chouinard, deputy minister of justice, refused to tell reporters whether the injunctions will be served on all 6,000 strikers or only on their union leaders.

The court orders terminate in 80 days — 20 days after a report is to be submitted to the cabinet by a Montreal Superior Court justice appointed earlier Wednesday to make a 60-day study of the dispute. The appointment is a formality required by law before the issuance of an injunction.

A cabinet meeting has been scheduled for this afternoon in case the bus and subway workers refuse to obey the injunctions.

At a Wednesday meeting preceded and followed by protest demonstrations, most of some 2,500 employees attending signed resignations. Union leaders said no one could be forced to work unless he wanted to.

EFFigy Before the meeting several hundred strikers in about 100 cars conducted a cross-town "funeral procession" for Mr. Justice Francois Chevalier, provincially-appointed mediator in the strike who resigned his post after the CNTU rejected his settlement proposal.

The cortege was complete with a hearse carrying an open coffin with an effigy of the Superior Court judge plus four flower cars supplied by strikers owning convertibles.

Stanfield to Polish French

Crash Course Set

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield is to spend a week taking a "total immersion" French course starting Oct. 15, a spokesman said Wednesday.

Stanfield will stay in Montreal with a French-speaking member of his staff, Bernard Flynn, a Montreal lawyer, who will help the party leader maintain his use of French when classes are not in session. Flynn also is to relay any messages from the party's

Ottawa office to Stanfield in French, although "we hope the office routine will not intrude on his totally French-language week."

The spokesman said Stanfield is not preparing for any particular speech or event. His prime purpose in taking the crash course was to prepare for conversation in French with party members and French Canadians. As Nova Scotia premier, Stanfield had little occasion to speak French, the spokesman said, and although he now reads French well, his speaking is "slow and a little uncertain."

For the first five days of the course, the party leader is to study mostly conversational French with various instructors from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. The last two days will probably be devoted to a review at his hotel with the help of an instructor and a tape recorder.

Long Abandoned

Mine Wall Bursts Flooding Townsite

MONTGOMERY, W. Va. (UPI) — A water and gas filled abandoned mine cracked open Wednesday night, sending tons of water and noxious fumes cascading into this tiny mining community.

Governor Hulett Smith put the state national guard and civil defense units on the alert, and then travelled to the flood-ravaged community himself.

"I want to find out what equipment we need," the governor said.

About five feet of water covered four blocks of the downtown area.

FAMILIES EVACUATED Twenty-nine families were evacuated and more evacuations were expected as the water continued to cascade out of the gaping hillside.

Telephone and electrical service was shut off. City hall, several churches and two downtown banks were flooded.

Firemen from six surrounding communities were called in to help in the evacuations and fight a blaze in an automobile agency.

FUMES THIN

Methane gas fumes penetrated the air but were not concentrated enough to sicken residents.

The coal mine, known as the "Old Mudsock Mine," burst open on a hillside at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

It had been abandoned 40 years ago and its lower section became a repository for rain and spring water.

France Pulls Money Strings

By HAROLD MORRISON
From London

France appears to be using multiple weapons in her drive to keep the so-called 'Anglo-Saxons' off balance. It may not just be a question of keeping Britain from European Common Market membership; it also may paralyse plans for a massive injection of new money into the arteries of world trade.

Britain has been made amply aware that President de Gaulle does not want her in the six-country partnership. In public speeches, private talks and through Common Market documents, the French message is stated clearly: Britain is too weak, her links are too widespread, her interests are too questionable to make her a good European.

The British government has chosen to play down these arguments or simply ignore them in its determination to gain the entry denied by de Gaulle's veto in 1963.

There have been whisperings that de Gaulle has hinted to the British ambassador that, if Britain keeps pushing, he may find it necessary to use every weapon at his command to prolong the negotiations or shut the door once more.

He still has the veto. In addition he has the knowledge and power to frustrate the British appeal for an expansion of the world credit supply to take pressure off sterling as a reserve currency and help oil the machinery for an expansion of world markets.

When bankers and central bank governors met at Rio de Janeiro last month to complete their historic agreement for expansion of currency reserves through so-called special drawing rights, there was a hint that France might not be so willing to go along.

It had been agreed that the Common Market, with France as its pivot, would get virtual veto rights on how the new reserves would be injected in the world stream.

Injection had to be approved by 85 per cent of the International Monetary Fund membership votes. Since the Common Market countries have more than 15 per cent of the votes, their approval would have to be obtained.

And while there might be doubt whether the Common Market would vote as a bloc, there appears to be little question that a bloc vote is what France visualizes for her partners. And there is more than a hint she'll get full support from West Germany.

While Britain and the United States maintain there is no agreed link between monetary fund reform and expansion of the credit-money supply, the fact a final treaty on money and plans for reform are being undertaken simultaneously and with similar March 30, 1968, completion dates would indicate France has won a favorable compromise.

It still remains to be seen what reform takes place. Undoubtedly the Common Market will obtain increased influence in the fund's over-all policies.

Meanwhile, French officials may have made clear to Britain that she has a lot to lose if she persists in mounting furious pressure for Common Market admittance.

She might lose her membership chances as well as chances for world monetary expansion.

Two-Party System In Store for France

By HAROLD KING
from Paris

Under the constant pressure of the new constitution of the Fifth Republic, France is steadily moving towards a two-party political system.

A striking symptom of this development was the decision of the Christian Democratic party, or Popular Republican Movement (MRP), to disappear from the political scene.

In its heyday, during the first decade after the Second World War, when France enjoyed some dozen political parties, groups and group-lets, the MRP was the biggest political party in the country.

In 1947 it had 163 members in the National Assembly. Today, it is not represented in the assembly at all.

The decline of the MRP is attributed mainly to its failure to follow the majority of its voters in supporting President de Gaulle.

For all practical purposes, the political structure in France has already been reduced to four main parties.

● The Gaullists, still the strongest single party in the country, in uneasy alliance with the Independent Republicans.

● A number of middle-of-the-road or centrist assembly members.

● The Communists. What is forcing the parties to line up on one side or the other of a dividing line between government and opposition is the election of the president of the republic by universal suffrage, and the rule that in the second ballot, if there is one, only two candidates can stand.

U.S. Politics Scrambled

By JOSEPH KRAFT
From Washington

Local elections around the U.S., manoeuvres in the Congress, and the continuing fight for control of the Republican Party all suggest that there is going on beneath the surface of American politics an immense scrambling.

The problem of the cities is forcing a fundamental change of attitude and outlook. In particular, workers and businessmen are reversing their usual roles.

The businessman used to be a figure of stodgy, staidism, a booster and babbling, unconcerned and America first. But in the context of urban problems, he emerges as the man with the resources and know-how to rebuild the cities, the chief hope for progress and innovation, the hero of the avant-garde.

Thus Sen. Robert Kennedy's program for urban redevelopment has, as its main feature, tax subsidies to encourage the business community to clean up the slums. Business participation is equally the key element in Sen. Charles Percy's program for low income urban housing.

The new element in the administration's recently announced program to create jobs for the hard-core unemployed is once again a subsidy to business for training workers. By no mere accident the leadership of the new program is vested in the Commerce Department, otherwise known as the main Washington lobby for the business community.

In sharp contrast, there is the role of the industrial and clerical workers. As the backers of Roosevelt and Truman, and the supporters of the unions and their broad social welfare programs, they stood for decades on the forward frontier of politics.

Now the ordinary white worker feels that the value of his home is seriously threatened by the enormous migration of Negroes to the cities. He may feel the same about his job, and his social standing, and the safety and education of his children. At the same time he is being obliged to pay more for social services which serve him only dimly.

In this situation, the blue collar workers are the very opposite of a force pushing for action in meeting the problems of the cities. Their interest, and now their habit, is to dig in against higher taxes for more welfare spending.

Their negative attitude, like the new positive outlook of the businessman, finds political expression all across the country.

Two current examples are James Tate who is seeking reelection as mayor of Philadelphia and Louise Day Hicks, the lady running for mayor of Boston. As one political scientist said of Mr. Hicks' supporters: "This isn't only anti-Negro feeling. These are poor, uneducated people thumbing their noses at affluent America."

A direct test between the progressive business outlook and the standpat attitude of most workers is posed in the Congress right now by the President's request for a tax increase.

The business community favors the increase as an anti-inflationary measure. But most of the ordinary people of the country are flat against it, and their hostility has not been eased by appeals on behalf of the social welfare programs certain to be cut without a tax rise.

A far more important and dramatic test of strength is likely to come inside the Republican Party.

For more and more the Republican presidential race is shaping up as a contest between the governor most identified with worker resistance to welfare spending, and the one most identified with business leadership in the rebuilding of the cities.

More and more, in other words, it is shaping up as a confrontation between Ronald Reagan and Nelson Rockefeller.

OPINION

Christians, Communists Open Friendly Dialogue

By CECIL NORTHCOTE, from London

The first of a series of informal talks between Christians and Communists has taken place in Britain. Fifteen members of the Communist Party met 15 members of the Church of England, Roman Catholics, Quakers and Methodists for two days of discussion.

Similar consultations are being held in other countries between now and April 1968 when an international congress of Christians and Marxists is to be organized by the World Council of Churches.

The movement to draw Christians and Communists together in closer understanding owes much to the energies of Professor Josef Hromadka, 70-year-old professor in the Protestant faculty at Prague University.

A convinced Christian, and also a believer in the social revolution achieved by Communism in Czechoslovakia, Hromadka claims that Christianity and Communism should be co-operating in the search for a more peaceful and just world.

years and like the more famous Dean of Canterbury the late Dr. Hewlett Johnson, sees no conflict of conscience here.

The opening of this new dialogue does not, in the opinion of Christian leaders, mark any change in the Christian view that many of the political aspects of Communism are evil, and that officially the Communist Party denies the existence of God, claiming that religion is a hindrance to the Communist revolution.

But the fact that 50 years after the Russian revolution the Christian church is still active in the Soviet Union, and that under the other Communist regimes of eastern Europe there are vigorous Christian communities, is compelling Christian leaders to take a new look at Communist-Christian relationships.

Generations of Christians, now living under Communist rule, may never have known any other form of government. A clarification of political, moral and theological aims is needed if the opposing systems of thought are to understand one another.

A great deal more common ground between Christianity and Communism may be discovered if these informal dialogues can be conducted in an atmosphere of goodwill instead of the suspicion of the past.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

For two or three brief months, the ruling bodies of golf were patting themselves on the back for their wisdom, discretion and tolerance in accepting a unified code of rules for 1968 and onwards.

The meeting in England last May on the occasion of the Walker Cup matches brought together the Royal and Ancient Golf Club, the U.S. Golf Association and the Royal Canadian Golf Association, and at that meeting it was agreed that in everything but the size and weight of the ball, golf should be the same game the world over.

As the three bodies are the only ones to produce a set of rules in their own rights, it looked as if lack of uniformity was at an end.

Unfortunately this has not proved to be the case. The touring pros, who are part of, but not the majority of, the Professional Golfers Association of the U.S., have decided they do not like some of the new rules, and that they will continue to play their competitions as they want to play them.

This goes for their refusal to accept the ban on the "between-the-legs" type of putting and the continuous putting rule approved for stroke play by the ruling bodies.

The touring pros think a player should be allowed to putt as he chooses provided he does not push, scrape or spoon the shot.

Continuous putting, whereby in stroke play the player on the green furthest from the hole shall putt and continue to putt until he holes out, does not appeal to the pros because they believe it could create inequalities where big money is at stake.

The pros also are not keen on the rule which says the ball may be cleaned only once on the putting green, and then only before the first putt has been made.

It is unfortunately not very practical to say "let the touring pros do what they like." For one thing, because of TV, most golfers at one time or other watch tournament golf played by the gold-trailing pros, and what they see the pros doing, will be accepted by many as the rules that must also be accepted by the "simon pures."

The British and U.S. Opens, almost exclusively populated by the leading pros, will be conducted under the "amateur" rules as they are now being called. It is going to be confusing and awkward.

Worse still is the plight of the Royal Canadian Golf Association which relies heavily on the support of the USPGA for its Canadian Open, and has a commercial undertaking acting as its co-sponsor.

The RCGA will have to decide if it will follow the lead of the R. and A. and the U.S. Golf Association in sticking rigidly to its own rules in its own open and thus incur possible displeasure and non-attendance of the top pros.

In the past the RCGA has compromised. It has allowed the pros some latitude in rule interpretation such as in method of dropping the ball for TV tower or spectator stand obstruction, as well as in the method of removal of foreign matter on the line of putt.

If however the croquet putters and other bans under the new rules were permitted in the Canadian Open, a very serious situation could easily develop, and it would certainly make it difficult for the RCGA to persuade its thousands of members that there should be one set of rules for the Persians and another for the Medes.

Indeed the revolt of the touring pros has aroused such feeling in the U.S. — particularly from the amateurs with croquet putters — that the U.S. Golf Association might be forced to go back to the R. and A. and the RCGA with the admission that the new uniform code is impractical so far as its domain is concerned.

Charlie Smith, the 88-year-old secretary of the Vancouver Island Senior Golfers Association, says the only reason the Old Blasters won't let him resign is that they believe he carries a good weather charm about with him.

The autumn meeting at which Cy Watkins of Glen Meadows won the Bob Mayhew trophy with a net 68 at Uplands last Friday was no exception. Despite a week in which there was more rain than shine, the seniors with the exception of the last two foursomes got round in dry weather.

The dinner following was quite an occasion because life member Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson in his 100th year was present and was congratulated all round.

Game Postponed

O'Keefes 'Wrecked'

Bill Findler, president of the Pacific Coast Soccer League last season, stated, with a slight annoyance at the rain-cancelled games in Victoria last season, that at least Callister Park was invariably playable with its sand surface.

Findler has since resigned but the PNE directors in Vancouver, which run the park, have found another reason to cancel a soccer match.

WRECKS MIED

Victoria O'Keefes were scheduled to open the season at Callister against North Shore Luckies on Saturday but the league has been informed that this park won't be available.

A series of demolition derbies has been held at Callister during the summer and it appears that there are currently some 22 wrecks.

The pitch is soft with the heavy rainfall and the PNE has not been able to remove the wrecks. The clean up job is scheduled for Saturday.

MAY BE BLESSING

For O'Keefes, the cancellation may be a blessing in disguise. Marty Taylor and Barry Sadler are both hobbling with ankle injuries while Bill Hamilton has a broken thumb. Next PCSL game for O'Keefes is on Oct. 28.

High Cage Salary Denied

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers made it official Wednesday that Will Chamberlain had ended his holdout and signed a one-year contract with the National Basketball Association Champions.

There were reports that the 7-foot-1 centre would receive in the neighborhood of $25,000, but both a 76ers' spokesman and Chamberlain denied the salary was that high.

Chamberlain was slated to join the team immediately and to play Wednesday night in a pre-season game against the New York Knickerbockers.

COA Official Resigns Over Policy

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Olympic Association will meet in Toronto this week-end and it is expected one of the major topics of discussion will be the recent resignation of Henk Hoppener, the group's first paid executive.

Hoppener, a driving force behind the success of Olympic House at Expo 67 since its inception six months ago, resigned through COA president Jim Worrall of Toronto, and officially left the job Sept. 30.

His resignation was never made public and no successor has been named.

Since then Olympic House has been run by COA secretary E. Howard Radford, past-president Ken Farmer and other Montreal members of the executive committee.

Both Hoppener and Radford agreed that the resignation was brought about by policy differences, but they declined to define the policy differences and Radford said the matter will be discussed officially for the first time at the COA meeting Saturday and further comment should come from Worrall.

Victoria Girl Scores for Canada

TROY, Northern Ireland (Reuters)—Susan Millikin of Calgary scored three goals Wednesday as a touring Canadian field hockey team defeated Ulster Presidents 5-2.

The game was the last one scheduled for the Canadians who started their tour at the International Federation of Women's Hockey Associations tournament in West Germany last month.

Brenda Robson of Toronto and Vivien Wilkinson of Victoria scored the other Canadian goals.

Flying Club Will Get Building

By BRIANT FELKER
CAMPBELL RIVER — School officials are still backing the regional college, despite a determined effort to pull this district out of the scheme.

Around the Island

STILL Out

KELSEY BAY — The deep-sea ferry on the run between here and Prince Rupert will be off for some time. B.C. Ferry Authority's general manager, Monty Aldous, said Wednesday the Queen of Prince Rupert is having its engines realigned following the Aug. 11 grounding. He is not sure how long this and other work on electrical equipment will take. However, it is understood here that the big ferry will be back on its run before Christmas.

DUNCAN — Social assistance disbursed from the city office during September amounted to $6,948. The list of recipients included: 28 families with 91 dependents; 18 single men; 12 single women; two children placed with relatives and five boarding home cases.

QUALICUM BEACH — More than 60 delegates attended the Red Cross regional meeting here, composed of representatives from Vancouver Island branches north of Victoria.

President of the Mount Arrowsmith branch, Mrs. R. E. Parker, welcomed delegates, who heard of the progress being made in leadership centres across Canada and the enthusiastic work being undertaken by Red Cross Youth.

NANAIMO — RCMP Constable Richard Seville, 21, was treated and allowed to leave Nanaimo Regional Hospital Wednesday when the police car he was driving went out of control and slammed into a power pole near the Italian fountain. In another accident, on the Island Highway, Mrs. Joan Hadley of Qualicum, an unidentified woman and a boy were treated and also allowed to leave, after the car in which they were travelling crashed.

DUNCAN — Building permits during September rose sharply to $439,950 from $36,200 during the same month last year. The nine-month total this year is $1,008,330. In 1966, the figure was $751,090.

Cowichan Hospital

Hospital Auxiliary
May Be Formed

LAKE COWICHAN — A special meeting will be held tonight (Thursday) to discuss the proposed formation of a hospital auxiliary to the new Cowichan District Hospital.

The meeting is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. in the Lake Cowichan Health Unit.

Representatives from the junior and senior auxiliaries in Duncan have been invited to attend and answer questions, as well as to assist with the formation of a group at Lake Cowichan.

Representatives from the communities in the Lake Cowichan district have been working to form sub-locals in their communities.

They are seeking members who will be active in volunteer work in the hospital or who would be interested in doing handicrafts to raise funds towards furnishings or equipment for the hospital.

Associate members may also assist financially without being active.

Campbell River

Almost All Roads
Lead to Home

CAMPBELL RIVER — Any road but the normal one to school seems to intrigue children as a likely short cut.

This is what happened Tuesday, when 12 students from Evergreen school became lost after visiting Rockland school to watch a football game.

Along the road back to school, the students decided to slice some time off their 2½-mile walk by choosing an old logging road.

When they became overdue, a search was organized.

It took three hours for a search party composed of RCMP and worried parents, to locate them.

The overgrown, twisting road led away from both schools, and when found, the children had no clue to their whereabouts.

Coun. Kenneth Forde asked municipal council to support his call for a petition for a new vote on the regional college.

Coun. Forde is an opponent of the college. He said there should be a new vote because the Campbell River school district does not adjoin any other participating area.

Courtenay school district overwhelmingly tossed out the college idea, and left Campbell River isolated.

Council refused to support the motion until it has had a chance to discuss the matter with officials planning the college.

Meanwhile the school board held a meeting and said "We wish to reaffirm our interest in the establishment of a regional college to serve the people of our district."

"We are continuing to negotiate with other member districts to see how best this can be accomplished."

Council approved leasing the airport building to the Campbell

River Flying Club for $1 a year, providing there is enough money to relocate the building.

This building will be surplus

Heap Big Smoke,
And No Quitting

CAMPBELL RIVER — You can lead a reeve to the paper, but you can't make him quit.

Municipal council is doing the leading.

Council passed a motion that Reeve Kenneth MacDonald place a declaration in the paper supporting No Smoking Week, Oct. 11 to 18.

The motion was passed over the reeve's objection.

He said he is a confirmed smoker, and has absolutely no intention of observing No Smoking Week.

on completion of the new Campbell River airport administrative building.

Coun. Herbert Oving told council police facilities are overcrowded.

While council was discussing the police report, Coun. Oving described a recent visit to the RCMP office.

He had intended to examine the recently-completed renovations. "I found six policemen standing around waiting to use a typewriter."

The said in addition to overcrowding, the parking lot is unpaved, and the cells are of such poor quality that "I hope I am never obliged to use them."

There are no stationary cabinets, and the lighting is unreliable. He said the building that houses the RCMP is both unsatisfactory and inadequate.

'College Not
First Need'

PORT ALBERNI — The Alberni Valley District Teachers Association has defended its position after school board chairman Don Andrews expressed disappointment at its failure to support the regional college.

"It is highly flattering to hear Mr. Andrews imply that a public statement by the association might have changed the result of the plebiscite," stated a news release.

"It is no compliment to the general intelligence of the public when Mr. Andrews suggests that the vote might have been altered if the teachers had made a statement."

"Many teachers had honest reservations concerning this district's participation in a college located in Nanaimo."

"They are entitled to these reservations. The members of the Alberni Valley Teachers Association feel that this district does not now look after the needs of its elementary and secondary schools in a satisfactory manner."

"The immediate need is for a thorough investigation of our present educational facilities. The district's teachers propose to make such a survey and invite interested citizens and the school board to join them in this vital project."

The teachers' statement concluded, "Children have the right to quality education."

Nowhere to Stand

'These Children Will Be Hit!'

LAKE COWICHAN — The school board wants danger spots on Lake Cowichan Road wiped out by the Highways Department.

"There are two points on Lake Cowichan Road where some child is going to get hit by a car or a truck if something isn't done immediately," said transportation chairman Trustee Alce Walker.

He told trustees children waiting for the school bus at the three-mile and summit points have no shoulder to stand on.

"The youngsters have to stand on the opposite side of the road while waiting for the bus," Trustee Walker said.

"When they see the bus coming they dart across the road to meet it."

He said "This situation is dangerous, and I am greatly concerned about the lack of bus stop waiting areas at these two points."

He added at the summit stop near Paldi, the area is usually very foggy during the morning in the winter months.

"The fog is an added hazard," he said. "The heavy traffic on the Lake Cowichan Road is dangerous enough for the children without the additional hazard of not being able to wait for the bus off the highway."

There are about 21 students waiting for the bus at three-mile, and an additional six children at the summit.

Trustee Walker recommended the board make an immediate application to the department of highways for a solution to the problem.

"Even if the shoulder was widened at these two points, it would help," he said.

Trustees approved the expenditure of money to assist teachers and administrators in the district to attend an audio-visual trade fair to be held in late October or early November.

The trade fair will probably be held in the Nanaimo or Courtenay areas.

Administrator Ron Kimak pointed out to trustees that each school district is presently buying its own brand of equipment for audio-visual use.

He said "all suppliers of this type of equipment have been asked to exhibit their equipment at the trade fair."

"In this way districts can decide which is the best equipment for specific needs."

"This may be the first step towards collective purchasing."

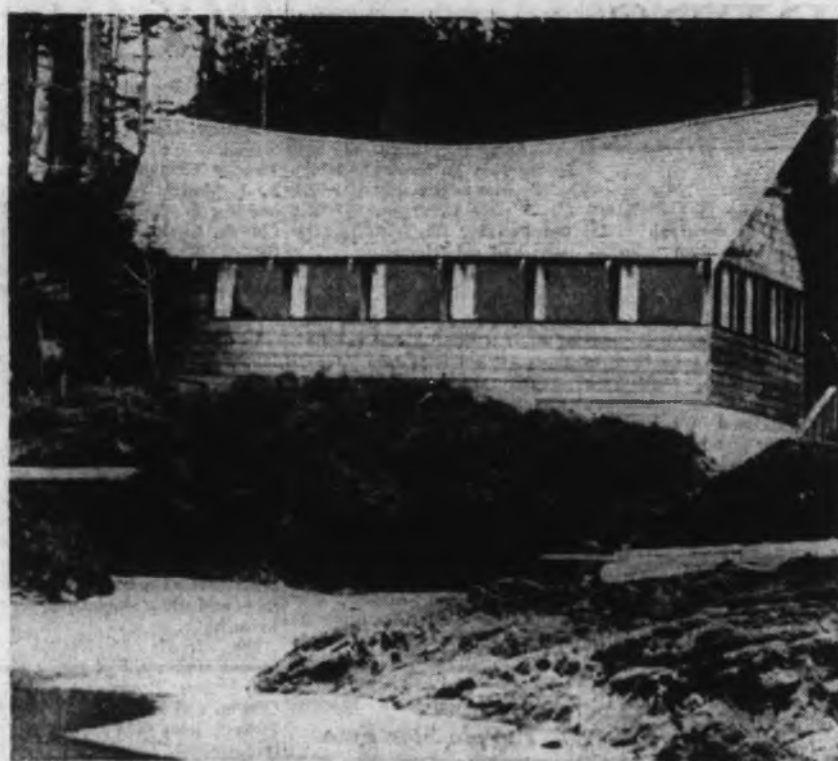

Trustees learned Dr. L. W. Downey, chairman for the study of administration in education and his associates will be conducting a study of operations in Lake Cowichan school district at the end of October.

Invited by the board to conduct the study, Dr. Downey, Dr. H. A. Wallin and Dr. W. J. Bartrick are all of the centre of administration, Department of Education at UBC.

The study will be divided into three parts: The school board, the school board office, and district administrators.

Following the study of operations, Dr. Downey and his associates will report on the present administration methods.

They will point out faults which can be corrected, and suggest course that may be taken to improve efficiency in operation.

Four-year-old Wickaninnish Inn was cut off by mud

Some Stride Through Mud At Lonely Long Beach

LONG BEACH — Some residents and tourists, stranded here by a mud slide 12 feet high and 20 yards long across the Long Beach Road, have been forced to walk out.

The slide blocked the road at the weekend when a large section of an embankment collapsed after heavy rains. It is about two miles from the junction of the Tofino-Ucluelet Highway.

"The people who have walked out have been able to easily hitch lifts, there has been no real transportation problem," Robin Fells, manager of Long Beach's Wickaninnish Inn said Wednesday night.

"The buses are still running, and E.C. Airlines' planes are too."

He said the slide, south of the Inn, had cut off 12 houses.

"Luckily no one was injured, and no property was damaged," he said.

Highways Department crews, using a shovel loader on a tractor, expect the road to be passable this morning.

Light rain fell on the west coast during Wednesday.

Mr. Fells, who said there were two remaining guests staying at the Inn, described the blocked road as "an inconvenience, but not a handicap."

"People have left their cars here and intend coming back for them later in the week," he said.

No utility or telephone poles were brought down by the slide.

Floods Follow Autumn Rain

PORT ALBERNI—City works crews have been on standby alert as a result of heavy rain which has caused flooding of streets and basements in some areas.

A letter to city council from recent purchasers of an apartment house on Roger Road complained of ruined carpets and raised tile in ground level apartments, as a result of water rushing down the newly-paved Roger Road area.

Council decided on immediate action in two directions. The city manager will be in touch with the city's insurance agents, and works crews will be asked to investigate.

Residents of Sixth Avenue North between Redford and Bute Streets also complained of run-off problems.

"I think construction, especially home building, is a very poor thing to use to deflate the economy," Mr. Reynolds stated. Speaking to the motion, Ald. George McKnight said that even at 8 per cent a $15,000 mortgage would require $100 monthly for interest alone.

To include water rates and taxes, and a payment of at least $50 monthly on the principal would bring house payment to a minimum of $190 before heating and electricity were added.

Two Inquests

Quamichan Baby Starved

One inquest jury blasted negligent parents for their baby's death, and another said alcohol was to blame for a drowning, in hearings Wednesday night.

At Duncan, the jury said Joan Anne Jack, 17 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jack of Duncan, died of malnutrition and pneumonia.

She died at the home of relatives in Quamichan.

In Nanaimo, a jury ruled alcohol and obvious lack of safety measures in boating led to death of Allan Hamilton, 27, 625 Fifth, Oct. 1.

He drowned in Barbary Lake, west of Nanaimo, when he fell after starting in an eight-foot boat.

Conservation officer Leo Van Tine said the boat was too small for the three people it carried.

In Duncan, jurors stated "We find the parents negligent and there was lesser negligence on the part of Steve and Alice Jack due to their inexperience."

The girl died Sept. 30. Dr. J. S. Goodbrand, who had treated the child several months before, said "I was alarmed that the child died."

He stated the child seemed thin. Dr. Goodbrand told the jury he saw the child in March this year, when the infant was underweight.

It was taken to the hospital and was discharged 27 days later, healthy. Public health Nurse Mrs. Marjorie Langlois said she had seen the baby several times, and in March she took it to the doctor.

Royal Jubilee Hospital pathologist Dr. Ross McNeely said he found the child emaciated, completely dehydrated, and the brain showed lack of oxygen.

He said because of malnutrition pneumonia developed which caused the infant's death. Steve Jack, 20, said the parents left no money for the child.

In June the infant's parents went to the United States with the baby but in July the baby was left when they went back to the U.S.

At first it was in care of Martha Jack, and later in care of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Jack.

Time Was Ripe

The road had been scraped off preparatory to improvement, when the rains came.

"As a result, it now has an even better opportunity to run through yards and gardens," residents complained.

City works officials advised council the area was the next one slated for a sidewalk, but a retaining wall is required before the sidewalk and paving can be started.

Ald. Mike Ivezich said he had been asked about better lighting at Tenth and Burde, a major crossing for school students.

City council discovered its most public-spirited citizen.

Public Spirit

A letter from the attorney-general's department showed that Captain R. D. Barratt, who was appointed as a magistrate in 1965, had received no salary since his appointment.

Captain Barratt fills in during the absence of Magistrate William McLeod. But even on this basis, 2½ years is a long time.

Mayor H. A. M. M. observed "Surely Capt. Barratt must be our most public-spirited citizen."

"I would think that when he was appointed, the attorney-general's office would have made arrangements for him to be paid by contacting the city officials," the mayor remarked.

Partial Pay

Council agreed to refer the matter to the finance committee.

The suggestion by the attorney-general's department was that compensation might be partially made by dating commencement of a nominal salary of $150 monthly back to April of this year.

Council unanimously endorsed a motion by Ald. Garnet Reynolds that a protest be lodged with the minister of finance on the rise in interest rate for housing.

"This cannot help but act as a strong deterrent to low income groups who must need the housing," Ald. Reynolds told council.

CBC Knocked

The alderman also felt the multi-millions spent on bilingual and biculturalism committees and on the CBC "which receives heavens knows how much," could well be channelled in part to housing, he said.

Working on the theory that higher interest would tempt more money into the housing field could lead to a ridiculous situation, he said.

If the Carter Report should be implemented, real estate would no longer be considered a good investment, as it is today, he added.

No Shooting at Dump

Duncan Must Thwart Rat Invasion

DUNCAN — "Something must be done about the rats, or they will invade our city," Ald. Barney Cocks complained.

He referred to the city's garbage dump about which the Cowichan Indians voiced complaints in a letter to the city. "I don't think it is that bad that we have to alarm the people," replied Ald. Tom Kilpatrick.

The dump is located on the Indian reserve and although the band agrees with the city council that there should be no shooting of rats, they deplore the dump management.

City council, Tuesday night, decided to form a committee and study the problem of rats.

The ban on shooting of rats at the dump was first suggested by the city following a fatal shooting a few months ago of a young Indian at the garbage dump.

Acting Mayor Jim Saunders explained it would be useless to put up a no shooting sign, because it would be torn down.

Other Districts

Referring to the charge of broken glass, he commented everything is being done to keep it down and the dump grounds are cleaned regularly.

"I don't know what more can be done. More than half the people using the dump come from the outside areas.

"The dump is quite a problem for people living in that area."

Ald. Martin Lukaitis agreed with him and suggested money should be charged users from other areas and if the dump would be administered by the new regional area the dumping could be controlled during the day.

Ald. Hamish Mutter said "The dump is one of the first things that should be on a regional basis."

Ald. Lukaitis agreed. "The dog licence has not gone up for some time."

Everything has gone up and maybe increasing of the dog tax is the only answer.

The local SPCA branch told Duncan and the municipality of North Cowichan another $3,000 a year will be needed to continue the service.

It was hinted the service would be withdrawn if the two municipalities would not agree to pay more.

"Heaven help us if we have to do it ourselves," exclaimed Ald. Mutter.

"Is it not another job for the region?" he asked.

Acting Mayor Saunders noted "It is one of our problems."

"We have not increased in population too much since 1959,

Duncan cartoonist Ray Harder has found another use for the once-upon-a-time Duncan courthouse, at least in his imagination. He has drawn a recreation centre out of it, complete with swimming pool on top. The cartoonist, who says his hobby is most interesting during the dull winter months, works as a central office maintenance man with the B.C. Telephone Co. at Duncan. During her vacation, Sharon Harsch worked at Dares Photography in Port Alberni, both in the dark room and in the office. She enjoyed it, and said "One girl's work is another girl's hobby." The manager of the Youbou branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, Don Gere, has been transferred to Abbotsford.

Acting Mayor Saunders noted "People in the south are very interested in proper garbage facilities."

Hiking of the city's dog tax was recommended by Ald. Cocks as a measure to raise more money needed by the local SPCA to operate the pound.

"People should be paying for the protection they are getting for their pets," Ald. Lukaitis agreed.

"The dog licence has not gone up for some time."

Everything has gone up and maybe increasing of the dog tax is the only answer.

The local SPCA branch told Duncan and the municipality of North Cowichan another $3,000 a year will be needed to continue the service.

Acting Mayor Saunders noted "It is one of our problems."

"We have not increased in population too much since 1959, and therefore we should not have to contribute much more than now."

Park Survey

Local SPCA President James Egan told the two councils in his brief the last contract between his society and Duncan and North Cowichan was made in 1959.

In other business council also:

Decided to go along with a development survey of the Pioneer Park area by Victoria firm A. B. Sanderson, but will study more carefully the need for a recreational director before making any final commitment.

Will press for an adjustment of minimum fines at the next meeting of Vancouver Island municipalities after Ald. Lukaitis noted more money should be available from fines to pay for law enforcement.

And will seek permission from the minister of municipal affairs to hold a boundary extension vote Nov. 4 to include an area south of Duncan to Benigh Road, part of Cowichan Bay, Eagle Heights and Koksilah.

Series Aces Duel in Finale

BOSTON—"The World Series is going to end the way it should—our best against their best."

Boston slugger Carl Yastrzemski said it Wednesday after slamming a home run and two singles to help Red Sox to an 8-4 win over St. Louis Cardinals. (See also Page 16.)

He was referring to today's deciding game in which Bob Gibson, ace of the St. Louis mound staff, is scheduled to face Jim Lonborg, top hurler on the Boston club.

Gibson won the first and fourth games of the series 2-1 and 6-0 while Lonborg won the second and fifth, 5-0 and 3-1.

LIBERALS RETURNED

REGINA (CP) — Premier Thatcher's Liberal government was returned for a second term in the Saskatchewan election Wednesday night by a slightly increased majority, but the result was almost as much of a cliff-hanger as his first victory 3½ years ago.

With election night returns complete, the Liberals had won 36 seats to 23 for the CCF.

That compared with a standing at dissolution of the last legislature of 31 Liberals, 26 CCF members, one Progressive Conservative and one vacancy.

But recounts appeared probable in a number of seats where the margin of victory was slim. Five Liberals and three CCF candidates led their opponents by less than 100 votes.

Thatcher lost two cabinet ministers, Education Minister George Trapp and Public Works Minister Wilf Gardiner, and Conservative Leader Martin Pederson was defeated by a Liberal.

LOSE IN CITIES

The CCF held its own in rural constituencies but lost ground to the Liberals in the cities, where its traditional strength lay. Government candidates unseated two CCFers in Saskatoon and captured two new urban seats to the CCF's one.

Despite a comfortable victory in his own constituency of Biggar, CCF Leader Woodrow Lloyd said he will ask his party "to consider very carefully the question of new leadership."

An incomplete tabulation of the party vote showed the Liberals and CCF running even with the Conservatives dropping sharply behind their 1964 performance.

BIGGER EDGE

Social Credit Leader Lloyd Avram was a badly-beaten fourth in Qu'Appelle-Woleley. His five Social Credit running mates also fared badly.

Thatcher, who won by a slim 236-vote margin in 1964, finished 1,000 votes ahead of Mayor L. H. Lewry of Moose

Guidelines? Maybe

Sharp Will Call Restraint Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said Wednesday he will call a meeting of labor, management, and other interested groups in his effort to get national support for restraints on rising prices and costs.

Whether the government will promulgate a formal set of guidelines or merely foster a general inclination towards restraining what otherwise might be an overheating of the economy remains to be seen, he told the Commons.

Sources outside Parliament said earlier the minister is working towards a set of economic guidelines to be introduced at the year-end or early in 1968 after discussion with labor, management and consumer groups.

MOBILIZE OPINION

Questioned about the report by George Hees (PC-Northumberland), Sharp told the Commons he wants to organize a campaign to mobilize public opinion in support of greater stability in costs and prices.

NDP Leader Douglas asked whether the government would set up a prices review board to gather information about prices and profits. He said the rising cost of living is more critical in Canada than any other western industrialized country.

Sharp said he could not yet indicate what formal machinery might be created, but it is up to the government to give leadership and it is.

CONFERENCE

The interim Opposition leader, Michael Starr, (PC-Ontario) asked about calling a conference. Sharp said he had already told Parliament he intended to seek the help of labor, management, and other groups, and he added that calling a meeting would be part of the program. Consumer interests would be invited.

Sources outside the House indicated the government is thinking actively of using guidelines to control rising prices and wages.

TWO STYLES

The American attempt to dampen inflationary tendencies was to limit wage increases to the country's annual growth in labor productivity. Voluntary adherence to this formula was sought, but was not obtained.

The Labor government in Britain set up more formal machinery, and by severely restricting wage and price increases through a government board, succeeded in turning its inflation into deflation. Britain now is busily trying to "reflate" the economy.

Prisoner Kills Sheriff

WINNEMAC, Ind. (UPI) — A county jail prisoner pulled out a smuggled gun Wednesday, fatally shot a sheriff and fled after dragging the dying officer into a cell and locking it.

Sheriff Milo Lewis, 58, died in hospital less than four hours after he was shot three times by Arthur Lewis, 35, Gary, Ind., an accused tavern brawler who did not belong in the Fernald County jail.

Lewis was in Sheriff Lewis' jail only because the State County Jail at Knox, where the prisoner's case had been transferred from South Bend on a charge of venue, was not considered sufficiently secure to keep him.

Jail Flight Fatal, Vain

LAKEPORT, Calif. (UPI) — Three convicts attacked their guards Wednesday while being led through a narrow corridor from the jail to the Lake County courthouse. One officer, Dave Hoyt, 22, was killed and two of the prisoners wounded.

The prisoners were quickly subdued after the shooting by other officers and a judge. They had been scheduled to appear before the judge for arraignment on charges of escaping from a prison camp last month.

Soviet Ship Bringing Eight Bodies

Disaster Victims Sent Here

The Russian merchant ship Orekhov is bound for Victoria with the bodies of eight crewmen drowned in the sudden sinking of the freighter Pan-oceanic Faith, about 1,700 miles west of here. The Orekhov is due to arrive at 6 p.m. Saturday. A representative of the ship's owners, Pan-oceanic Tanker Corp. of New York, will be in Victoria to meet the Russian vessel and arrange for removal of the bodies.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman, Lieut. (JG) T. J. Northup, said Victoria was the Orekhov's original scheduled destination. However, King Bros. Ltd. shipping agency here reported it had no knowledge that the Orekhov had been bound here.

NO MORE FOUND

A second day of searching Wednesday located no more survivors and it is believed the death count may reach 35. Only five of the crew of 40 have been rescued.

An international search begun Wednesday involved a U.S. Navy plane and four ships, the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Dexter, the U.S. merchantman Pan American Steel Seafarer, the Japanese freighters Bristol Maru and Rocky Maru.

"A couple more ships have since arrived on the scene and a couple more are en route," Lieut. Northup said Wednesday night. "Most of the ships passing through are diverting into that area to join the search."

A Norwegian vessel, the Vinund, is headed for San Pedro, Calif., with three survivors and four bodies. The Igasharu Maru is headed for Yokohama with

Mass Resignations Greet Court Order

MONTREAL (CP) — Court injunctions were issued Wednesday night ordering 6,000 striking Montreal transit workers back on the job. The court orders came shortly after many of the strikers submitted their resignations to union leaders.

Issued in Quebec City, the injunctions were to be served Wednesday night or early today. Julien Chouinard, a deputy minister of justice, refused to tell reporters whether the injunctions will be served on all 6,000 strikers or only on their union leaders.

The court orders terminate in 80 days — 20 days after a report is to be submitted to the cabinet by a Montreal Superior Court judge appointed earlier Wednesday to make a 60-day study of the dispute. The appointment is a formality required by law before the issuance of an injunction.

A cabinet meeting has been scheduled for this afternoon in case the bus and subway workers refuse to obey the injunctions.

At a Wednesday meeting preceded and followed by protest demonstrations, most of some 2,500 employees attending signed resignations. Union leaders said no one could be forced to work unless he wanted to.

EFFigy

Before the meeting several hundred strikers in about 100 cars conducted a cross-town "funeral procession" for Mr. Justice Francois Chevalier, provincially-appointed mediator in the strike who resigned his post after the CNTU rejected his settlement proposal.

The cortege was complete with a hearse carrying an open coffin with an effigy of the Superior Court judge plus four flower cars supplied by strikers owning convertibles.

Stanfield to Polish French

Crash Course Set

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield is to spend a week taking a "total immersion" French course starting Oct. 15, a spokesman said Wednesday.

Stanfield will stay in Montreal with a French-speaking member of his staff, Bernard Flynn, a Montreal lawyer, who will help the party leader maintain his use of French when classes are not in session. Flynn also is to relay any messages from the party's

Ottawa office to Stanfield in French, although "we hope the office routine will not intrude on his totally French-language week."

The spokesman said Stanfield is not preparing for any particular speech or event. His prime purpose in taking the crash course was to prepare for conversation in French with party members and French Canadians.

As Nova Scotia premier, Stanfield had little occasion to speak French, the spokesman said, and although he now reads French well, his speaking is "slow and a little uncertain."

For the first five days of the course, the party leader is to study mostly conversational French with various instructors from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. The last two days will probably be devoted to a review at his hotel with the help of an instructor and a tape recorder.

Airliner with 66 Crashes Into Sea

ATHENS (UPI) — British European Airways Comet jetliner with 66 passengers and crewmen on board crashed in the Mediterranean on a flight from Athens to Nicosia, it was reported today.

The Comet left London airport Wednesday night on the flight to Nicosia with a stopover in Athens, a spokesman for the airline said. Reports from the scene said the plane crashed near the Greek island of Rhodes.

Police Rap Careless Motorists

Doors Open for Thieves

By BRIAN DOHERTY

Forty-five per cent of the property stolen in Victoria in August was taken from cars. Up until Sept. 30, there were 130 cars stolen in Victoria, compared with 179 for the same period last year.

"It is always very tempting when merchandise is left in an unlocked car," said Detective-Inspector William Andrews.

All but one of the stolen cars were recovered in the nine-month period, but many of them were wrecked by the joy-riding youths who borrowed them.

Inspector Andrews suggested: "Don't leave your keys in the car, and make sure you lock it."

The police can charge a motorist under section 182 (c) of the Motor Vehicle Act for leaving the key in the ignition.

The location of many stolen cars is made harder when the owners know nothing about their cars.

"So many don't know the registration number, make or model of their car," Inspector Andrews said.

He suggested motorists carry full particulars of their cars with them.

Transistor radios, cameras and batteries are favorite booty for car thieves who prey among parked cars. Many area hotels and motels suggest to tourists that they not leave valuables in their cars, but there was a case in August of an American losing more than $1,000 worth of property from his locked car.

In July there were 35 cases of thefts from cars, involving $1,643.43. In September there were 21 reported cases, involving $821.

Theft from cars is becoming more popular among juveniles who rifle through cars searching for valuables left in unlocked glove compartments.

Fatality Report Tonight

A report will be turned in by Victoria police to the coroner tonight on the facts surrounding the death of a 19-year-old football player.

"After I have read the report I will be able to determine whether an inquest or an inquiry will be held," said Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre.

BEFORE GAME?

Mr. St. Jorre said police were investigating the possibility that the boy's injury occurred before the game. He said the boy was reported to have been hurt around Sept. 6, "but it is rather vague." Police have also been asked to check on whether he was wearing a helmet in the game.

A post mortem disclosed the cause of death was a subdural hemorrhage.

MEMORIAL FUND

Mr. St. Jorre said the injury could have been caused by a kick, a blow or a fall. Classmates of the 19-year-old boy are organizing a memorial fund to be used for an athletic trophy bearing his name.

Bookworms' Chance To Turn

Bookworms got their chance to turn Friday when a special two-day continental book show opens at McPherson Playhouse. Mayor Hugh Stephens will open the exhibit at 2:30 p.m.

Organizer Gwen Scott explained Wednesday that the show combines 700 contemporary books, and displays from the provincial archives and the public library.

Miss Scott added, "It is likely by now that the selling of Canadian books provides at least 30 per cent of a book-seller's volume."

The public library will show out-of-print books and the archives have arranged a display of rare Canadian books.

Trailer Park Rules Tougher

The provincial cabinet approved new and tougher health regulations Wednesday for mobile home parks throughout B.C.

The new regulations will require a 25-foot buffer zone surrounding the park, piped water, flush toilets and sewage facilities, as well as garbage disposal.

Premises must be kept free of yarrin, rubbish and other debris, and open fires are not permitted, the regulations say.

Brentwood Women Will Honor Chief

Jean Baptiste Paul, Chief Thunderbird of Tsartlip Indian band, will be honored by a memorial to be built at Brentwood, according to Mrs. John Reynolds, vice-president of Brentwood Women's Institute, sponsors of the project.

And New Land Opened

Same Sewage Bills Offered in Saanich

Saanich taxpayers will soon be asked if they all want to pay the same sewage bills and at the same time open up land for badly-needed new homes.

It is a $6,000,000 proposal that would:

- Consolidate all existing sewage systems into a single enterprise, meaning every Saanich home would have identical sewer bills.

- Extend sewers to 3,460 acres of land that are likely to be developed in the next five years.

UNANIMOUS

Six council members at a public works committee meeting Tuesday unanimously endorsed the scheme, which will probably be approved at a regular council meeting Monday night.

A date was not set for the vote on such a referendum, but it could coincide with December's municipal election.

Added to the existing sewer area would be 3,460 acres of unsewered territory running from Marigold-Glanford in the west, across the Swan Lake area, over to the southern end of the Blenkinsop Valley to Gordon Head.

The $6,000,000 bill, based on estimated 1968 costs, is made up of roughly $3,130,000 as Saanich's share of rebuilding the Macaulay Point outfall and $2,870,000 for the lateral lines in unsewered areas.

The largest utility is Sewer Area No. 1 — consisting of roughly 7,000 homes which would have its costs increased.

One of the proposals presented to the committee would see those annual costs increase $13 or $14. The payments in No. 1 area now range from $21 to $31.50.

Coun. Leslie Passmore, committee chairman, said new homeowners are paying "absurd" prices for lots because of the shortage of sewerage sites.

Despite the housing shortage, permits for new home construction in Saanich this year are maintaining only the 1966 levels.

"We are down to virtually no lots, and we can't expand any further," said Municipal engineer Neville Life.

In U.S.

Teacher Aides Trend

Entry of non-professional teachers' aides into the classroom is a major trend in U.S. elementary education, a visiting educator said Wednesday in Victoria.

Mrs. Rebecca Mauzey of Washington, D.C., field secretary of the Association for Childhood Education, addressed the newly-formed Island branch of ACE at 4081 Gordon Head Road.

The teachers' aide performs non-teaching jobs. Clerical work and lesson preparation are among her tasks.

TRIED IN VICTORIA

The innovation is being tried out in seven Greater Victoria schools this fall.

A major obstacle so far, said Mrs. Mauzey, is that teachers don't know how to use their aides effectively.

"We need to educate our professional people so they can delegate duties to other people," she said.

"People who have been in education for many years need to be taught how to work in teams."

Other trends in U.S. elementary education, said Mrs. Mauzey, are an increase of interest in kindergarten and nursery schools, more intensive scrutiny of curriculum, and education of the public to classroom needs.

Rotarians Stress Motivation

An effort to try to give one man in each of the 46 Rotary Clubs in his district motivation was promised by district governor Michael Dederer at a dinner meeting Tuesday.

He told Rotarians at the meeting at the Red Lion Inn that motivation would help them fulfill their role.

Mr. Dederer referred to a magazine article that said only about 40 per cent of members knew why they joined Rotary. He said Rotarians joined the club because they wanted to serve above themselves.

Native Sons Honor Ross

Charles Ross, the first officer appointed to command Fort Victoria, will be honored in a ceremony Sunday by the Native Sons of Canada, Post No. 1, Victoria.

A seat and plaque will be unveiled at Dallas Road and St. Charles Street at 2:30 p.m. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at The Inn, 1528 Cook.

Convention Centre Argument Threatens

By A. H. MURPHY

Aldermen will be brought up to date on convention centre developments today when Ald. Percy Frampton will present a special report to city council.

The report will be the outgrowth of a conference held Wednesday in the office of City Manager Dennis Young.

At the same meeting, the city manager will make a recommendation regarding selection of a firm to conduct the economic and commercial survey which is preliminary to development of the city's 55-acre urban renewal project in the Wharf Street area.

WATERFRONT SITE

The $70,000 survey will be made with a convention centre site in mind, probably right on the waterfront.

The possibility of a strong difference of opinion at today's meeting was also foreseen following Wednesday's conference.

Ald. Frampton, chairman of the special council convention centre committee, has championed a commercial, office building-hotel development across Douglas from City Hall — a development which would contain a convention centre.

NOT DEAD

"This plan is far from dead, and we have decided to keep in touch with these people," said Ald. Frampton.

"After all, we have never actually chosen a site for the centre. It seems to me that the actual choice of a site has been lost in the plan for urban renewal. I intend to keep the proposal made by Oxford Leaseholds Ltd., very much alive," the alderman continued.

Another possibility is a location somewhere in the neighborhood of the Empress Hotel. It is known that preliminary discussions have taken place with the CPR.

SURVEY START

If a survey firm is selected at today's meeting of city council, it is likely that an immediate start will be made on the survey of the 16 blocks destined for renewal.

Nine firms of economic specialists from across Canada applied for specifications to conduct the survey and six of them submitted briefs to the city outlining methods of attack.

The survey is expected to take six months, after which a plan of operation would be prepared before beginning actual work on the massive facelift.

QUICK ACTION

No estimates of cost have been made, although it is almost certain that such a job would be in the multi-million-dollar bracket.

One half the cost of urban renewal is customarily borne by the federal government, one-quarter by the provincial government and the remaining quarter by the city.

Two city aldermen, Percy Frampton and Geoffrey Edgell, have been pressing for quick action in the matter of a convention centre for the city. Mayor Hugh Stephens, on the other hand, has given notice that he will not be rushed into a hasty decision in a matter where so much civic money is involved.

The two points of view might well be forcibly expressed today.

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

October 12, 1857

The want of a book postal communication between England and this Colony has long been seriously felt and the Mechanics' Institute, through their excellent secretary, Mr. W. K. Bull, have addressed a letter to the Governor requesting that steps be taken with a view of securing to this community the advantage resulting from this very desirable object. In reply to this communication, the Governor, through his private secretary, states that a copy of the letter of the Institute will be forwarded to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and that the subject will again be brought under the notice of the Home Government.

The California—A private despatch received last evening from San Francisco states that the steamship California sailed on Monday evening last for Victoria via Portland.

Merger Brief Incomplete—Councillors

Two North Saanich councillors showed a growth rate of 4.45 per cent. From 1956 to 1966, the average growth was 3.75 per cent.

PRIMAIRY AID

The brief said the primary objective in the incorporation of North Saanich as a municipality was to secure direct control over zoning and land use. North Saanich would lose this advantage if amalgamation took place, the brief said.

It expressed the fear that council might not be able to preserve the rural atmosphere of North Saanich if it contained a large urban population.

CONFLICT SEEN

The brief added that amalgamation would lead to a conflict of interest between rural and urban parts of the municipality, and suggested that two municipalities could speak with greater authority at conferences.

Demolition Order May Come Today

A demolition order may be issued at today's meeting of city council telling the owners of the unfinished apartment complex at Topaz and Quadra to get it down within 30 days.

Members of city council public works committee decided at a recent meeting that the owners had had plenty of warning and that the dilapidated building was not only an eyesore but an actual danger.

They decided at this time to issue a demolition order at today's city council meeting, to take effect within a month. City Manager Dennis Young said at that time that there had been some hope that the build-

Crowds Force Extra Showings

Standing-room-only crowds have forced extra showings of the University of Victoria's film programs. There will be two screenings of Canadian Films 2 at 2:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m., Oct. 21.

The program will include John Hofsess' Black Zero, Iain Ewing's Picaro and two short films by Derek May and Ryan Larkin.
